

What do you do when your client brings up God?!?

The Association of Student Counselors Proudly Presents

What About God? Engaging with Religious Clients about Sexuality, Gender Roles, and Divorce

Haley Feuerbacher, PhD-Candidate

When: Tuesday, May 5, 2015 from 8:00-9:00pm

Where: SMU Plano, Bldg. 3, Room 210

RSVP by Apr. 30th to Sarah at sfeuerbach@smu.edu

Religious beliefs are foundational to many people's sense of morality that comes to rise in a counseling setting. This presentation will be extremely helpful for counselors in knowing how to work with clients struggling with their religious beliefs through breaking away from shame-based and constraining ideas and behaviors while still honoring their belief system.

A theologian, minister, and activist, Haley is also a doctoral candidate in Religion and Culture and a graduate certificate student in Women's and Gender Studies. She is deeply interested in identifying central narratives of morality in religions and examining what other narratives, messages, or interpretations might exist within the given religion that could offer a different understanding of morality and relationships.
