

Gender and Sex Roles

ANTH/
CFB 3310

A Global Perspective

June Term

Meets Pillar: Individuals, Institutions, and Culture Level II
Meets Proficiencies & Experiences: Information Literacy,
Human Diversity and Global Engagement

SMU-in-Taos

- Women in the military
- Machismo
- Body image
- Bride Burning
- Genital Cutting
- Gender in Media
- Global Sex Trade
- Surrogate Motherhood
- 21st century fatherhood

Anthropology 3310 , Gender and Sex Roles, explores the experience of manhood and womanhood cross-culturally. With a global focus, this course looks at the diversity of male and female roles, as well as other genders, with particular attention to both similarities and differences from culture to culture. Sexuality, body image, child rearing, male and female division of labor and employment, notions of fatherhood and motherhood, marriage practices, attitudes towards reproduction, and gender inequality are all debated and explored, with special emphasis on the roles of both biology and culture.

Contact: Instructor, Dr. Jose Santos

Jose.Santos@metrostate.edu