

Perkins Office of Public Affairs Recognized with 2010 DeRose-Hinkhouse Awards

The Office of Public Affairs of Perkins School of Theology has been recognized by the Religion Communicators Council for its work in publications, marketing, and web design. In the Council's 2010 DeRose-Hinkhouse Memorial Awards Competition, Perkins received a total of five awards in the categories of "Writing" (Best of Class, Award of Excellence), "Non-broadcast Audio/Video: Audiovisual Narrative" (Award of Excellence), "Non-broadcast Audio-Video: Video Testimonials" (Certificate of Merit), and "Public Relations and Advertising" (Award of Excellence).

The DeRose-Hinkhouse Memorial Awards are presented annually to active members of the Religion Communicators Council who demonstrate excellence in religion communications and public relations. Recipients will be honored at a special reception scheduled for April 8 in Chicago at the Religion Communication Congress 2010.

Below is a link to the articles, drawn from the Winter 2009 issue of Perspective magazine, that were recognized in the "Writing" category. Visit the homepage on the new Perkins website to view two other submissions that won awards: the introductory video segment and the video testimonials by students and faculty reflecting on the Perkins experience.
