

John C. Tolleson is chairman and chief executive officer of Tolleson Wealth Management, a Dallas-based private banking and wealth management firm. Mr. Tolleson is the founder, former chairman and chief executive officer of First USA, Inc., one of the largest independent credit card companies in the U.S. prior to its merger with Bank One in 1997. John has served on the SMU Board of Trustees since 2000 and also serves SMU as chairman of the Executive Board of the Edwin L. Cox School of Business, as chairman of the SMU Investment Committee and as a board member of the Willis M. Tate Distinguished Lecture Series. He was the recipient of the Cox School of Business Distinguished Alumni Award in 1996. His community service includes membership on the boards of Baylor Health Care System Foundation and Southwestern Medical Foundation where he also serves on the Investment Committee.

Debbie Tolleson is president of the Tolleson Family Foundation and serves on the board of directors of Tolleson Wealth Management and on the executive board of SMU's Meadows School of the Arts. She is a member of the President's Advisory Council of the AT&T Performing Arts Center, the Brinker International Forum, and the Women's Initiative Advisory Council for the George W. Bush Institute. Debbie is a founding member of The Women's Auxiliary of Nexus and is active in fundraising for various charitable organizations.