In 2011-12 SMU celebrated the second year of the University's centennial commemoration period marking the 100th anniversaries of SMU's founding and opening. The University's progress was marked by major strides forward in the key areas of student quality, faculty and academic excellence and the campus experience. The Second Century Campaign, the largest fundraising initiative in SMU history, continued to play an essential role in drawing the resources that are enabling SMU to continue its remarkable rise as a top educational institution. By the end of the fiscal year, SMU had received commitments for more than 84 percent of the campaign's financial goals. Thanks to the inspiring support of alumni, parents and friends of the University, SMU is continuing to build a strong foundation for an extraordinary second century on the Hilltop.

LETTER FROM THE CHAIR OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES

It is a special time at SMU.

This Annual Report highlights the University's extraordinary progress during 2011-12, the second year of SMU's centennial commemoration period. It is a snapshot of an institution in motion.

In one important measure of progress, the average SAT score of incoming first-year students in fall 2011 reached 1269, setting a new record. The rise, supported by donor contributions for merit-based scholarships, takes SMU closer to reaching the University's announced goal of an average SAT score of 1300.

During 2011-12 SMU also received support for new faculty positions, another key component of academic quality. Talented faculty members both impart and create knowledge, and increasing the number of endowed faculty positions is of central importance if SMU is to rank higher among the nation's top educational institutions.

This spring the University embarked upon a new major phase of campus development in fulfillment of SMU's Centennial Master Plan. Up-to-date facilities support accomplishment in every area of endeavor, and these construction and renovation projects will ensure that both students and faculty members have the tools necessary for achievement well into the future.

As part of SMU's centennial commemoration period, the University commissioned a study of its unique contributions to Dallas-Fort Worth, titled The Power of Partnership: SMU Community and Economic Impact Report. I want to take this opportunity to thank Mike Boone '63, '67, vice chair of the Board of Trustees, for his leadership in the creation of the report, which also emphasizes how SMU can play a vital role in the region's future.

None of these accomplishments would have been possible without the generous contributions of donors as well as the dedication of others who care deeply about the University. Great credit goes to President R. Gerald Turner and his administrative team. In addition, as chair of the Board of Trustees, I would like to express my deepest appreciation for the time, talents and commitment given by all of my fellow board members, especially those whose terms ended in May 2012. You have the profound gratitude of the University community for all you have done to ensure a bright future for SMU.

LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENT

The 2011-12 academic year was marked by a significant increase in SMU's visibility both in the University's profile as an institution and as a result of ongoing enhancements to our special campus.

The Second Century Celebration, which commemorates the centennials of SMU's founding and opening, seemed a fitting time to report on the University's long and successful partnership with the Dallas-Fort Worth region. For that reason, in April SMU published The Power of Partnership: SMU Community and Economic Impact Report, outlining the many ways that the University serves DFW as a resource.

Growing numbers of educational initiatives, such as the new Engaged Learning program, are further drawing attention to SMU's role as an institution with a crucial role to play in the region. These programs enable students to enhance their educational experience by engaging with the community through independent research, job internships and participation in local cultural and community projects.

SMU's physical visibility grew as the historic transformation of the campus continued. Construction progressed on the new Residential Commons Complex, which will provide additional housing for 1,250 students and represents a new campus model for student living and learning.

We launched a major renovation and expansion of Moody Coliseum, to be completed in time for SMU's entry into the BIG EAST athletic conference in 2013. And a "topping out" ceremony for the George W. Bush Presidential Center, held in October 2011, marked a major construction milestone for the facility, scheduled to open in spring 2013.

In addition, the Mustang football team's third straight appearance in a nationally televised, postseason bowl game added to SMU's growing national stature, increasing awareness of the University's quality and supporting successful efforts to draw top students from throughout the United States.

Much of SMU's progress is a direct result of support for The Second Century Campaign, which has made it possible for the University to continue its historic rise as an institution dedicated to educating tomorrow's leaders and creating the new knowledge that will help meet tomorrow's challenges.

This Annual Report chronicles SMU's progress over the course of the 2011-12 fiscal year and highlights initiatives that will continue to define the University as it steps boldly into the future. I invite you to view the SMU Year in Review video, available at smu.edu/annualreport or through this QR code. Thank you for all you have done to help SMU achieve such exciting momentum.

UNBRIDLED IMPACT

THE SECOND CENTURY CELEBRATION

In 2011-12 SMU marked the second year of The Second Century Celebration, a five-year period commemorating the 100th anniversary of SMU's founding in 1911 and opening in 1915. In addition to honoring the past, The Second Century Celebration also is designed to highlight the University's present and future as a top educational institution with impact on the region and the nation.

The Second Century Celebration runs concurrently with and supports the goals of The Second Century Campaign, the largest fundraising initiative in SMU's history. The campaign is having an impact on every aspect of the University, enhancing student quality, faculty and academic excellence and the campus experience.

The Second Century Celebration includes special events, exhibitions and publications, including The Power of Partnership: SMU Community and Economic Impact Report. (See pages 12-13 for details.) The commemoration of this special time in SMU's history is enabling the University community, including alumni around the world, to reconnect with the University, provide essential support and help chart a course for SMU's future.

SMU hosts CENTENNIAL ACADEMIC SYMPOSIUM

“The University and the City: Higher Education and the Common Good” was the topic for SMU’s 2011 Centennial Symposium in November, held as part of the University’s centennial commemoration. Presenters included executives, leaders in public service, several SMU deans and professors and other education leaders. Dallas Mayor Mike Rawlings, speaking at the event, stressed the need for the city to have a “close association with higher education,” adding “I am humbled to be a mayor who has a university the quality of SMU here.” Attendees also heard from SMU students whose service is making a difference in the Dallas area. Henry S. Bienen, president emeritus of Northwestern University (left), the symposium’s featured speaker, presented an address titled “Reflections on a University in a Great City.”

CAMPUS ENHANCEMENTS help MARK CENTENNIAL

A host of campus amenities and initiatives were unveiled in conjunction with SMU’s centennial commemoration in September 2011. SMU dedicated the new R. Gerald Turner Centennial Quadrangle, funded through gifts from current and former members of the Board of Trustees. The Quadrangle also provides the setting for the Cooper Centennial Fountain, funded by a gift from Susan Smith Cooper ’62 and William R. Cooper ’58, as well as the Gail O. and R. Gerald Turner Centennial Pavilion.

SMU also opened Centennial Hall, a visitors’ center for the centennial celebration. The exhibit, located on the first level of Hughes-Trigg Student Center, includes a historical timeline (right), videos and interactive features. It received tens of thousands of visitors in its first year of operation.

Centennial Promenade, a vital new pedestrian walkway that will link the Hughes-Trigg Student Center with the new Residential Commons Complex, is slated for completion in 2015. SMU announced a gift from the Crain Foundation to name the Crain Family Centennial Promenade. Members of the SMU community also are participating in the project through $100 contributions for pavers to be placed on the Promenade.

FOUNDERS' DAY highlights CENTENNIAL, CAMPAIGN

SMU celebrated its second annual Founders' Day Weekend April 20-21 with activities highlighting The Second Century Celebration and The Second Century Campaign. More than 1,500 alumni and friends participated in one or more events during the week.

A midday "centennial celebration" for the University community April 20 commemorated the kickoff of the next phase of campus development chartered in the 1995 Centennial Master Plan. As part of the gathering, SMU broke ground on several new projects and looked ahead to the completion of others already under way. (See page 33 for details.) The event included the dedication of the Centennial Cornerstone (top left), a permanent tribute to the 100-year development of SMU's campus, begun in 1912. Members of the SMU community placed messages in the cornerstone to be opened in 2065, at the 50th reunion of the Centennial Class of 2015.

The day continued with Inside SMU, the University's way of providing alumni and donors with exposure to SMU faculty through informal courses. SMU's most generous annual donors were welcomed at the President's Associates afternoon reception. Following the reception, President R. Gerald Turner presented the annual President's Briefing, outlining SMU's progress during the previous year.

SMU hosted its annual Golden Mustang Reunion the following morning. The weekend concluded with a Family Day at the Meadows Museum featuring children's activities (including a falconer, top right) and was attended by more than 750 people.

HOMECOMING FEATURES FUN AND FOOTBALL, HIGHLIGHTS SMU-DALLAS PARTNERSHIP

SMU commemorated its 2011 Centennial Homecoming in November with a variety of events and activities celebrating the spirit of SMU. To emphasize the role that Dallas played in SMU's founding, Dallas Mayor Mike Rawlings served as parade grand marshal. Mayor Rawlings and his wife, Micki, were driven by Harvey Carter '78 in his award-winning 1916 Stutz Bearcat (left). Other festivities included: presentation of the Distinguished Alumni Awards (see page 35 for details); special Centennial Reunions; "Pigskin Revue," featuring the Mustang Band; The Boulevard; and a football game in which the Mustangs beat Tulane. SMU also published a book highlighting the University's beautiful campus, SMU: Unbridled Vision, containing more than 200 new color photographs as well as selected historic images.

SMU released The Power of Partnership: SMU Community and Economic Impact Report in April, highlighting the University's unique contributions to Dallas-Fort Worth and the return on the region's investment in SMU during its first 100 years. More than 400 civic and business leaders gathered at the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas April 17 to hear President R. Gerald Turner and other speakers discuss the report's content and the University's ongoing progress. The report details SMU's impact as an educational, cultural and public service resource as well as its economic impact. UNBRIDLED LEARNING

STUDENT QUALITY

SMU's increasing student quality is a defining feature of its continuing rise as a great university. In 2011-12 SMU continued to draw top students through its investment in merit-based scholarships, as well as by offering numerous opportunities for study abroad and programs enabling undergraduates to conduct research and benefit from independent projects, among other initiatives. Through rising SAT scores, national fellowships, leadership and engagement in social issues, SMU students are demonstrating the University's effectiveness in educating tomorrow's leaders.

SCHOLARSHIPS SUPPORT STUDENT QUALITY

Merit-based scholarships continued to play a crucial role in SMU's increase in student quality, a key goal of the SMU Strategic Plan. Read more about merit-based scholarships on page 17. (Left) President's Scholar Adriana Martinez '12 majored in political science, public policy, history and French and minored in human rights. She was the 2010-2012 Henry S. Miller Undergraduate Fellow in the John Goodwin Tower Center for Political Studies and also served as the student representative to the SMU Board of Trustees.

SMU APPLICATIONS set RECORD

SMU received a record number of applications to join the first-year class entering in fall 2011, reflecting the University's growing reputation as well as enhanced national outreach initiatives. The 12,961 applications topped the record of 9,085 the previous year by more than 42 percent. Students from outside Texas accounted for 55.1 percent of new first-year students. Minority students represented 26.6 percent, a slight increase over the previous record of 26.3 percent in 2010. SMU also received a record 1,293 applications for transfer in fall 2011, a 42.4 percent increase over the previous high of 908 in 2010.

STUDENT BODY PROFILE

A total of 10,982 students were enrolled in fall 2011, including 6,221 undergraduate students and 4,761 graduate students. Approximately 50 percent came from Texas, with the remainder from all 50 states and 90 foreign countries. Minority students constituted 25.6 percent of the overall student population.

STUDENT ACADEMIC QUALITY REFLECTED IN RECORD SAT SCORES

The average SAT scores of first-year students entering in fall 2011 set a new record, as SMU continued to advance toward an overall average SAT goal of 1300. The average score of 1269 represented a 26-point rise over the previous year and an increase of 102 points in the last decade. At the same time as SAT scores have increased, SMU has continued to attract a student body that features greater ethnic, geographic and socio-economic diversity.

RIISING TEST SCORES

Average SAT Scores for Entering Classes

STUDENT RECRUITMENT supported by MERIT-BASED SCHOLARSHIPS

Merit-based scholarships offered by the University as well as scholarships that target specific interests and are offered by schools continued to support SMU's successful initiative to recruit top students in 2011-12. Forty-six incoming students received full tuition President's Scholarships, while 27 first-year students received Hunt Leadership Scholarships. Schools' merit-based scholarship programs – Cox BBA Scholars in Cox School of Business, Meadows Scholars in Meadows School of the Arts, Dedman College Scholars in Dedman College of Humanities and Sciences, and in its inaugural year, Lyle Scholars in Bobby B. Lyle School of Engineering – provided support for high-achieving students who expressed advance interest in the schools' major programs.

UNDERGRADUATE RESEARCH ENHANCES LEARNING

SMU provides undergraduates with unique opportunities to engage in hands-on research outside the classroom. During 2011-12, undergraduates participated in a range of research initiatives:

- Nine interdisciplinary teams received grants to conduct research on significant Dallas issues through the Provost Office's Big iDeas program. They investigated issues including students' perceptions of STEM (science, technology, engineering and math) education; cultural offerings for lower income families in West Dallas; and ways to meet the health needs of Dallas' international refugee community.
- Through the Undergraduate Research Assistantship program, students worked under the close guidance of faculty members on research projects in disciplines including anthropology, engineering and physics. They learned skills and gained experiences that are more typical for graduate school, with opportunities to present findings at professional meetings and to publish work in journals.
- The Cary M. Maguire Center for Ethics and Public Responsibility awarded summer stipends to students to devote time to public service and research in the field of ethics. Their projects included evaluating the impact of economic development planning in West and South Dallas.
- Students pursued projects in politics and government as research fellows for the John Goodwin Tower Center for Political Studies. They partnered with faculty members to develop research in areas such as national security and immigration.
- The Jack and Jane Hamilton Undergraduate Research Scholars Program in Dedman College enabled undergraduate students to work closely with faculty members on important research projects in fields including biological sciences, chemistry, earth sciences and statistics.
- Students in the Meadows School conducted independent research with the support of Meadows Exploration Awards. Their projects included an exploration of international relations through theatre.
- Richter Research Fellowships, awarded to students in the University Honors Program, supported independent research internationally and at SMU-in-Taos. Students traveled to countries such as Pakistan to chart young war refugees' health; and India, to track water contamination.

ENGAGED LEARNING INITIATIVE supports STUDENT PROJECTS

Students designed and undertook projects connecting work in the classroom with the outside world through research, civic projects, creative endeavors or internships under SMU's Engaged Learning Initiative, a project of the Provost's Office, in 2011-12. Projects included designing a compound, removing heavy metals from polluted environments and developing and delivering after-school programs for homeless children, among many others. Participants create a detailed proposal, may apply for a grant to cover project costs, receive supervision from a faculty mentor, and must deliver a public presentation and provide a written report summarizing the project.

STUDENT TRAVEL educates FUTURE LEADERS and SUPPORTS RECRUITMENT

Programs involving travel are a crucial component of the SMU experience, enhancing students' education as future leaders and providing opportunities for community engagement, service and creative problem solving. These programs are also an important aspect of SMU's initiatives to recruit the best students. Here are some examples from 2011-12:

- More than 150 students, faculty and staff members participated in 14 service trips during summer, fall, winter and spring breaks in 2011-12 through SMU Alternative Breaks, which celebrated the 25th anniversary of its founding. Students traveled to communities including Atlanta, to work with organizations serving veterans; New York, to deliver food to families in need; and Quito, Ecuador, to teach children English and math. During winter break, the student organization marked its 100th trip as students traveled to work with a community organization in Brownsville, Texas, where other SMU students had first served 25 years earlier. (Left) Lisa Walters '15 and Adella Winder '13 on opposite sides of the equator in Quito, Ecuador.
- During SMU's annual Civil Rights Pilgrimage, undergraduate and graduate students took a nine-day bus ride through the American South, where they visited civil rights landmarks and met with leaders in the movement. Dennis Simon, Altshuler Distinguished Teaching Professor in political science in Dedman College, led the spring break pilgrimage with SMU's Chaplain's Office. The group's stops included Little Rock Central High School in Arkansas; the Edmund Pettus Bridge in Selma, Alabama; and the Lorraine Motel in Memphis, where Martin Luther King, Jr., was assassinated.

- As part of the Embrey Human Rights Program in Dedman College, students visited sites of human rights abuses and conducted research around the world. ## FACULTY AND ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE

A great university is shaped by scholars who create and share knowledge. Top educational institutions also require buildings with up-to-date classrooms, laboratories and technology that make it possible for faculty members to conduct research and teach and enable students to learn. In 2011-12 SMU continued to take significant steps to increase faculty and academic quality. These included the addition or enhancement of academic programs, the addition of both new faculty members and endowments for new faculty positions and the construction or renovation of facilities that support academic achievement.

PHYSICS PROFESSOR RECOGNIZED FOR RESEARCH ON DARK MATTER

Jodi Cooley, assistant professor of physics in Dedman College of Humanities and Sciences, was recognized in March by the National Science Foundation with a prestigious Faculty Early Career Development Award. Cooley was awarded a five-year grant of $1 million toward her work with an international team of physicists searching for dark matter, the elusive substance that makes up 85 percent of the matter in the universe. Read more about faculty recognition and awards on page 25.

SMU TEAM contributes to IDENTIFYING HIGGS BOSON

A team of SMU researchers, led by Ryszard Stroykowski, professor of physics, contributed throughout 2011-12 to work using the Large Hadron Collider (LHC) at the CERN laboratory in Switzerland leading to apparent confirmation of the existence of the elusive Higgs boson. The observation is regarded as the most significant advancement in physics in the last 50 years. SMU faculty and students participated in the design and construction of the LHC's ATLAS particle detector. Aided by the SMU High Performance Computing system, SMU physicists also played a major role – with only six other U.S. institutions – in analyzing ATLAS data that led to identifying the Higgs.

GEORGE W. BUSH PRESIDENTIAL CENTER MOVES TOWARD COMPLETION

Construction continued on the George W. Bush Presidential Center throughout 2011-12, with the facility scheduled for completion in spring 2013. President Bush and former First Lady Laura Welch Bush '68 hosted guests and honored construction workers at the Center's "topping out" ceremony in October. Events sponsored by the Center, which houses the George W. Bush Presidential Library and Museum and the Bush Institute, were held throughout the year, and President Bush continued to visit SMU classes at the invitation of faculty. Some 17 SMU professors and lecturers taught in the inaugural Women's Initiative Fellowship program of the Bush Institute, which drew female leaders from Egypt for leadership development.

Seven other Mustang teams advanced to postseason play in 2011-12, including men's golf, men's soccer, men's and women's swimming, cross country, outdoor track and field and equestrian.

EXPENDITURES TOWARD STRATEGIC GOALS

During the past decade, SMU has increased annual expenditures for scholarships, faculty and academic achievement in support of goals identified in the University’s strategic plan.

STUDENT SUPPORT

Annual University expenditures for tuition scholarships

FACULTY SUPPORT

Annual University expenditures for academic instruction

ACADEMIC SUPPORT

Annual University expenditures for academic support, including library, advising and technology resources

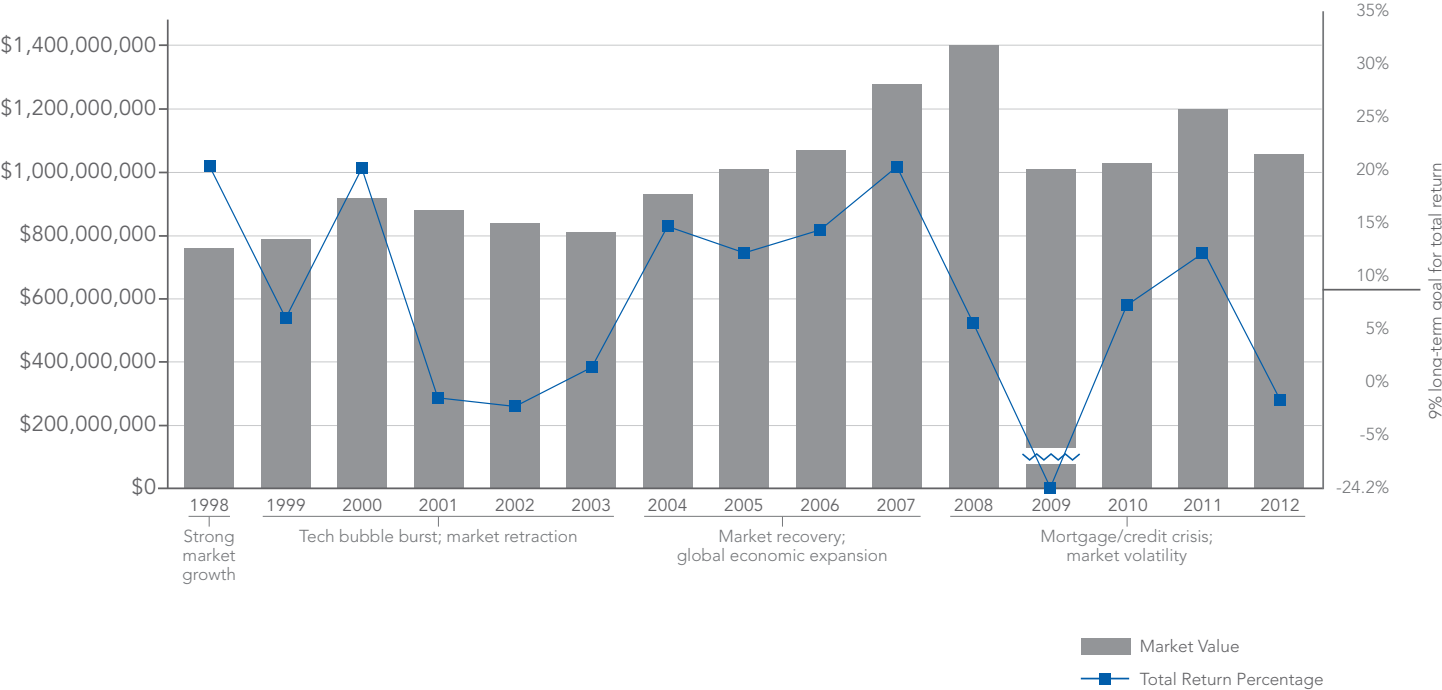

ENDOWMENT REPORT

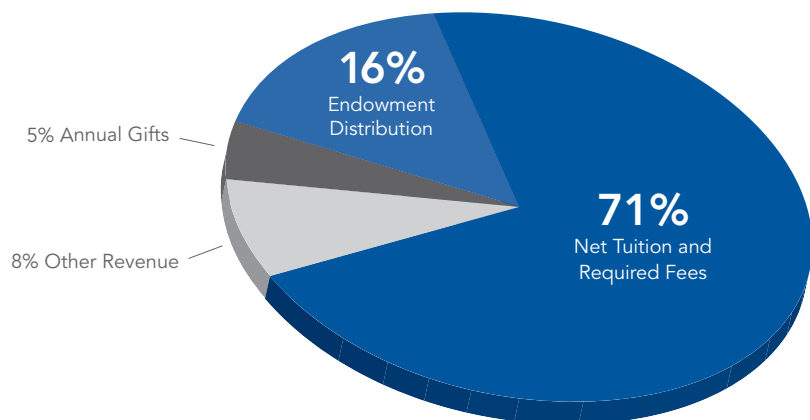

The market value of SMU’s endowment was $1.16 billion at the end of May 2012, representing a decrease of $28 million compared to the market value at the end of May 2011. Endowment gifts from donors totaled $14.9 million for the year. Endowment distributions of $56.5 million provided significant support to University operations and accounted for 16 percent of the operating revenue budget. Through this spending support, many restricted and unrestricted purposes, such as scholarships, faculty support, educational programs and libraries, were funded.

The total return for the endowment for the one-year period ending May 31, 2012, was -0.9 percent. Private investments contributed positive performance. While public investments experienced significant volatility during the period and generated negative returns, they outperformed their benchmarks. The worrisome U.S. economy and geopolitical events have affected returns over the last year, and the future investment environment still looks to be challenging over the short term.

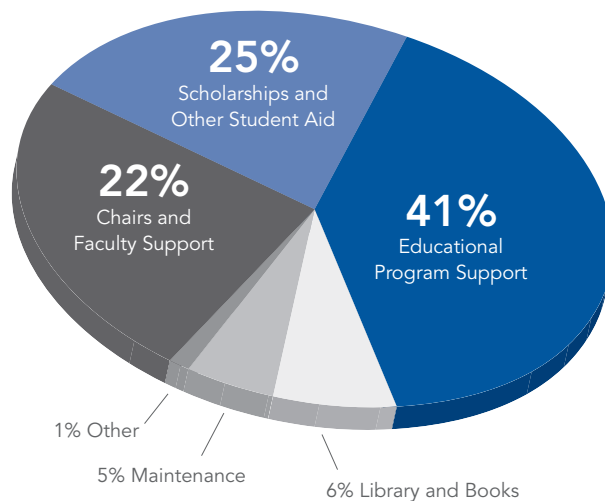

Generous gifts from donors and a continued, disciplined focus on investment strategies and opportunities will help the endowment grow over the long term, thereby providing support for SMU’s programs and priorities into the future.

That compares to $542 million raised during the entirety of the last campaign, A Time to Lead.

CAMPAIGN STATISTICS (as of May 31, 2012)

- Endowed funding to support 241 new scholarships
- 23 new endowed faculty positions for a total of 85
