DR. SETHA LOW, PROFESSOR AND DIRECTOR, PUBLIC
SPACE RESEARCH GROUP, GRADUATE CENTER OF CUNY

SPATIALIZING CULTURE: THE EMERGENCE OF TRANSLOCAL SPACE FROM TRANSNATIONAL FLOWS OF PEOPLE, CULTURE AND CAPITAL

Setha Low is Professor of Environmental Psychology, Geography, Anthropology, and Women's Studies, and Director of the Public Space Research Group at The Graduate Center of CUNY. She has received her Ph.D. in Anthropology from the University of California, Berkeley and has been awarded many honors and grants, including fellowships from the Guggenheim Foundation, NEH, Hays-Fulbright Commission and Getty Center for ethnographic fieldwork in Latin America and United States. Recent books include: Politics of Public Space (with Neil Smith), Rethinking Urban Parks: Public Space and Cultural Diversity (with S. Scheld and D. Taplin), Behind the Gates: Life, Security and the Pursuit of Happiness in Fortress America, and On the Plaza: The Politics of Public Space and Culture. She is currently researching (with R. Lippert) how private governance of condominiums in New York City and Toronto impacts social relations; this project is funded by the Canadian Social Sciences Research Council. She is also writing a book entitled Spatializing Culture: An Anthropological Theory of Space and Place.
