Woodrow B. Seals
(1917 - 1990)

Woodrow B. Seals is credited with helping to establish Perkins Theological School for the Laity, formerly known as Laity Week, at Perkins School of Theology in May 1974.

An active layperson, Judge Seals served at St. Stephen United Methodist Church in Houston. As chair of Evangelism, he reached out to the local community and brought in many new members. He instituted a program of support to the needy which later became the Society of St. Stephen. He also founded a Peace Advocate program which received national United Methodist recognition and support. He acted as a lay delegate to Jurisdictional, General, and World Conferences of the Church, and served on national boards.

Judge Seals became the first non-Catholic to receive the Papal Beneventi Medal for his work with the needy, awarded in 1979 by Pope John Paul II. In 1987 he received the World Methodist Peace Award from the World Methodist Council.

Judge Seals served in the U. S. Army Air Corps in World War II and retired as a lieutenant colonel in the U. S. Air Force Reserve. Having received an L.L.B. degree from The University of Texas in 1949, he served as U. S. Attorney for the Southern District of Texas from 1961 to 1966 and was appointed Senior Judge, U. S. District Court, Southern District, in 1966. Among his judicial decisions was a 1980 ruling (later upheld by the U. S. Supreme Court) that declared a Texas law unconstitutional which denied illegal immigrant children access to free public education.

While active in the Harris County Democratic Party Judge Seals served as county chairman. During the 1960 presidential campaign he arranged a nationally publicized meeting between John F. Kennedy and Protestant clergy, which was credited with being influential in disarming the religious issue of the campaign.
The Woodrow B. Seals Laity Award is presented annually to a layperson embodying the Christian faith and commitment of service to Christ as exemplified by Judge Seals, a distinguished layperson whose interest and energy were instrumental in establishing Perkins Theological School for the Laity, which is supported by Howard-Holbert Endowment Fund.

The Seals Award honors a layperson in the United States exhibiting an exceptional commitment of service to Christ in church, community, and the world through faith and action. Selection is based upon the nominee’s Christian stewardship, witness and service in the following three areas: Church, Community and World.

Nominations must include documentation representing the three areas listed above, as well as:

- A one to four page document including a biographical narrative and examples of nominee’s activities showing commitment to Christian service within the three areas of Church, Community, and World
- A minimum of three and maximum of twelve letters of recommendation from clergy and lay leadership of nominee’s congregation and/or denomination, as well as supplemental letters of support from other church or community organizations and officials
- Contact information for primary sponsor who will serve as the contact for Perkins School of Theology
