Tuesday, June 30, 2015 ~ Full Day Sušica and Uzamnica Camps

Early departure for Sušica camp. The detention camp is comprised of two main buildings and a small house. The detainees were housed in a hangar, which measured approximately 30 by 50 meters. Between late May and October 1992, as many as 8,000 Bosniak civilians and other non-Serbs from Vlasenica and the surrounding villages were successfully detained in the hangar at Sušica camp. The number of detainees in the hangar at any one time was usually between 300 and 500. The building was severely overcrowded and living conditions were deplorable. Men, women and children were detained at the camp, sometimes entire families. Women and children as young as eight years old were usually detained for short periods of time and then forcibly transferred to nearby Muslim areas. The men were held in the camp until its closure in late September 1992, and were then transferred to the larger Batković Detention Camp near the town of Bijeljina. Women of all ages were raped or sexually assaulted during their time in the camp by camp guards or other men who were allowed to enter the camp. Male detainees of the camp suffered a similar fate as the women. They were bullied, tortured and murdered. According to Pero Popovic, a former guard at the camp, they were generally lined up against an electricity pylon just outside the barracks and shot. Detainees at Sušica performed forced labor, sometimes at the front lines. Some detainees were killed by camp guards or died from mistreatment. A massacre was committed during the night of 30 September 1992, when the remaining 140 to 150 detainees at Sušica camp were driven out of the camp with buses and executed. You will have the opportunity to speak to local survivors and meet with local authorities with additional insight. Then the tour will continue to Uzamnica camp, a concentration camp established in 1992 by JNA forces for the Bosniak civilian prisoners during the Bosnian war. Many of the Bosniaks who were not immediately killed in the Višegrad massacre were detained at various locations in the town, including the former JNA military barracks and warehouse at Uzamnica, 5 kilometres outside of Visegrad. Some of these detainees were kept at this site for over two years. Serb soldiers raped many women, beat, and terrorized non-Serb civilians. Widespread looting and destruction of non-Serb homes and property took place daily and the two Bosniak mosques in town were destroyed. Here you will meet with local survivors and activist to understand firsthand the destruction and disparity during the war. After a stop for lunch, we will return to Sarajevo for overnight.

Thursday, July 2, 2015 ~ Half Day Dubrovnik City Tour

This morning you will be met at the hotel and taken to the Dubrovnik cable car station, near Pile Square, and then hop inside for your ride to the top of Mount Srd – the 1,352-foot (412-meter) mountain that towers over the city. After roughly three minutes inside the cable car, arrive at the summit and gaze out at the vista of Dubrovnik and the Dalmatian Coast sprawled out at your feet. Have your camera ready; many say that on a clear day, you can see sights up to 37 miles (67km) away. After admiring the views at Mount Srd's peak for just less than an hour, travel back down to Dubrovnik by cable car, and then start your walking tour of the Old Town. Home to most of the city's finest attractions, the neighborhood boasts culture and history in plentiful measures. See the circular Onofrio's Fountain with its huge central dome, and amble past the Franciscan monastery, where a copy of Michelangelo's La Pietà sculpture is housed. Continue walking to Sponza Palace – an attractive building that's easily the jewel in Dubrovnik's Renaissance crown. Now housing the country's extensive state archives, Sponza Palace was once the town's most opulent palatial building. Other highlights on your walking tour include Orlando's Column, the city bell tower, Rector's Palace and the Church of St Blaise – a pretty church dedicated to the city's patron saint. Walk across the main square to see the Baroque Cathedral of the Assumption, which was rebuilt in the 18th century after an earthquake, and then end your walking tour near Pile Gate.

Friday, July 3, 2015 ~ Sunset Cruise

This afternoon transfer to Zaton Bay and board your catamaran. Relax and get involved as gentle winds take you among the 13 wonderful Elafiti Islands, their beaches, caves and blue sea. Occasionally, friendly dolphins that are often seen in the area, escort the yacht.
