

The Midterm Report Card:

Does your organization make the grade?

This week marks the halfway point of the Fall 2011 semester! It's a good time to do some assessment in your organization. Here are some ideas:

- Evaluate the events you hosted this fall. What went well? What didn't go so well? Why?
- Revisit the goals you set at the beginning of the semester. Did you meet any? Do they need to be revised? What do you need to do to meet them?
- Ask for feedback about your organization's effectiveness. Are meetings too long or too short? Are you communicating effectively with each other?
- Check in with your advisor. Are you utilizing their knowledge and expertise? Are you meeting their expectations?

Successful organizations take the time to assess their effectiveness. When you evaluate the points listed above, make sure to take good notes and leave them for future officers. Leave your legacy to pave the way for future successes!
