This searchable document lists the 293 archival collections at Bridwell Library and provides brief, collection-level descriptions. Many listings include hyperlinks to online finding aids or downloadable PDF inventories.

Bridwell Library’s archival holdings fall into three general categories.

1. The Perkins School of Theology Archive (STA) (72 collections)
The Perkins School of Theology Archive includes more than one thousand linear feet of historical and administrative records, the professional papers of deans and faculty members, institutional and student publications, and records of student organizations.

2. The Bridwell Library Archive (BLA) (48 collections)
Occupying approximately six hundred linear feet of shelf space, the Bridwell Library Archive includes the professional papers of former directors and staff members, library publications, archival collections associated with the library’s rare books and manuscripts, and other historical and administrative records.

3. The Methodist Studies Archive (MSA) (173 collections)
The Methodist Studies Archive comprises nearly one thousand linear feet of documents focusing primarily on the history of United Methodism in Texas and surrounding states. Additional items document aspects of American Methodist and world Methodist history. The Methodist Studies Archive includes the papers of bishops, ministers, missionaries, educators, and musicians; the records of church-related institutions, organizations, and events; and materials documenting other facets of church life.

Additionally, four outside groups lodge their records (external archives) at Bridwell Library.

- The Archives of the North Texas Annual Conference
- The Archives of the Rio Grande Annual Conference
- The Archives of the South Central Jurisdiction
- The Archives of the Texas United Methodist Historical Society

The records of these United Methodist-related bodies may be accessed at Bridwell Library with assistance from each organization’s archivist. For further information see this linked document.
