Anthropology: A Four-Field Approach

Fall 2019 – TTh – 9:30-10:50am

What is anthropology? This course introduces students to the four subdisciplines of anthropology: sociocultural anthropology, linguistics, archaeology, and biological anthropology. Come explore different global cultures, languages, and biological diversity around the world. As part of this journey, we investigate ancient cultures and the evolution of humankind. In this class, we learn through a series of hands-on learning assignments, in-class activities and discussions, as well as writing assignments. Satisfies Individuals, Institutions, & Cultures Breadth and Writing Proficiency.

Introductory Cultural Anthropology

Fall 2019 – MWF – 12:00-12:50pm

How do people live around the world? What are different societies like? This course explores variations in different cultures around the world with regard to cultural values, social practices, religion, rules of law, kinship, etc. We focus on understanding the forces that shape cultures and societies and how groups adapt to a rapidly changing world.

People of the Earth

Fall 2019 – TTh – 11:00am-12:20pm

Fall 2019 – TTh – 3:30pm-4:50pm

When did humans first appear on Earth? How have we changed biologically and culturally over the last 5 million years? When did people settle down, raise crops, forge metal tools, and build cities? This class examines human biological and cultural evolution, from our separation from other apes to the appearance of modern humans in Africa, the spread of people across the globe, to plant and animal domestication, and the rise of the world's great civilizations. Satisfies Historical Context Breadth, Human Diversity Proficiency, and Ways of Knowing.

Human Evolution

Fall 2019 – TTh – 9:30-10:50am

We are products of our evolutionary past. Employing evidence from the human fossil record, the archaeological record, and the genetics of both living and extinct humans, this class explores what we know, don't know, and can come to know about our history in deep time. Beginning with developing an understanding of how evolution operates, we will examine the evolution of the primates, paying particular attention to our own group—the hominins. Satisfies Science and Engineering Breadth.

The Science of Our Past: Introduction to Archaeology

Fall 2019 – TTh – 12:30-1:50pm

How do scientists study human societies and ancient civilizations? What types of evidence do they use? What do their findings indicate about how people lived in the past? This class examines how and why archaeologists study evidence of past human behavior. We will learn through lecture, videos, as well as hands-on labs that emphasize analyses and interpretations of artifacts and other archaeological materials. Satisfies Science and Engineering Breadth, Historical Context Breadth, and Information Literacy Proficiency.

Introduction to Medical Anthropology

Fall 2019 – MWF – 2:00-2:50pm

Provides an overview of methods and topics in medical anthropology, an interdisciplinary field that explores health, illness, and systems of healing through holistic and cross-cultural study. Case studies from a diversity of human societies and cultures around the globe are used to challenge assumptions of student understanding. Gives students a robust introduction to this specialized sub-field within Anthropology and addresses many of the foundational concepts on the MCAT. Satisfies History, Social, & Behavioral Sciences Depth, Human Diversity Proficiency, Oral Communication Proficiency, and Information Literacy Proficiency.

The Immigrant's Experience

Fall 2019 – MWF – 10:00-10:50am

Explores the historical, social, cultural, and political dimensions of the U.S. immigrant experience and Americans' attitudes toward immigrants. Is the United States a "Nation of Immigrants?" and if so, why do we have periods of immigrant scapegoating? Why do we have high rates of illegal immigration? What are the varying sources of immigrants across time? Should we support bilingual education? What is the meaning of assimilation and the "melting pot"? These questions and more are addressed in this class. Satisfies Ways of Knowing, Historical Context Breadth, and Writing Proficiency.

Special Topics in Anthropology: Build It, Hack It, Fix It

Fall 2019 – M – 2:00-4:50pm

Infrastructures connect people, places, ideas, and resources (think: water, transportation, and communication systems). This class draws on issues in anthropology, environmental studies, and infrastructure studies/STS to examine the politics and impacts of infrastructures, especially related to social difference and resource access. The course covers the relationships between environments and infrastructures, and asks how we can manage these systems in the Anthropocene. Themes include materiality, sociotechnical systems, cities, communication technologies, differential access to resources, roads/transits, water, energy, maintenance & repair, and nature as infrastructure. The course asks you to look at infrastructure as politics, and to become more attuned to the webs that we rely on in day-to-day life.

Introduction to Osteology I: Human-Animal Interactions

Fall 2019 – T – 2:00-4:50pm

Explores the evolution of human and animal interactions through a comparative study and analysis of their skeletons. Examines variations in nature's grand design, including the origins of different skeletal features, the evolution of these features over time, and the ways humans influenced the development of many of these features through processes such as targeted hunting and selective breeding. Introduces the science of taphonomy in hands-on learning labs. Students learn how isotopic and biomolecular analyses of animal skeletal remains help in understanding human-animal interactions.
