PROPOSED SYLLABUS FOR MAYTERM 2019

PLSC 3345
POLITICS AND GOVERNMENT OF THE MIDDLE EAST

Instructor: Dr. LaiYee Leong
Contact information: lleong@smu.edu
Class meeting: TBD
Classroom: TBD
Office: Dallas Hall 58E (History Department)
Office hours: by appointment

COURSE DESCRIPTION
The Middle East and North Africa (MENA) is a region always in the news: Saudi Arabia, Iran, Syria, Turkey, Yemen, Iraq, Libya…. Do you wonder at what’s going on over there and why the US sends American troops – and trillions of dollars – to the region?

Whether it’s American military involvement, the war in Syria, or US-Iran tensions over nuclear disarmament, this course will help you understand the context and why the MENA is worthy of concern.

MENA represents an area of critical interest to the US for many reasons: as a site of longstanding territorial disputes and ongoing military conflict, as the origin of a major refugee crisis, as the crucible of jihadism, and as the home of the world’s largest producers of oil, just to name a few. Yet despite its importance to US foreign policy, many Americans know little about the region beyond simplistic portrayals in the news media.

This course will provide you an opportunity to engage more deeply with the dynamic forces that shape government and politics in MENA. It will challenge you to reconsider many common assumptions about the region’s peoples and societies. We begin by exploring complex historical legacies. We then investigate some of the most important themes – regime, economy, security, nationalism, religion – that shape contemporary realities. We also examine US foreign policy in the region, how it is perceived, and its impact.
Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to
- explain the historical context for politics in MENA,
- demonstrate knowledge of issues related regime, political ideologies, economy, and security in MENA, and
- discuss the manner in which US foreign policy shapes and is shaped by developments in MENA.

COURSE READINGS
Required books are available at the SMU Bookstore.

COURSE EXPECTATIONS
There is no prerequisite for this course. No knowledge of the subject is assumed.

Attitude: Your enrollment in the course is a promise of professional commitment. Diligent and consistent work is expected. Please take the initiative to raise questions in class or to see me after class.

Attendance: You are expected to come to class on time and to stay for its entire duration. Non-attendance will lead to a commensurate penalty in your grade for the course. An excused absence MUST comply with university regulations (see appendix at the end of the syllabus for more details.)
This course is designed to be student-driven and discussion-centered. Attendance is therefore essential for success in this course.

Conduct: Mature, respectful behavior befitting an SMU student is expected. Please turn off mobile phones. If you use a laptop, you must sit in the front row. Laptop use is strictly for taking notes. Any other use during class may lead me to ban laptops. Disruptive or unprofessional behavior may cause points to be deducted from the class participation part of your grade.

DOCUMENTARIES
Documentaries and excerpts shown in class are part of the course materials and may be included in quizzes and the final exam. All documentaries in the schedule listed are tentative.

READING ASSIGNMENTS
You are expected to complete the readings assignments for each class BEFORE the session meets. Be prepared to ask and answer questions. Constructive participation will earn credit, and will be remembered when final grades are set, especially in borderline cases.

PLEASE NOTE:
Due to the accelerated schedule of MayTerm, and the importance of having context for class discussion, you are strongly encouraged to read the first half of Abdel Aziz’s The Queue before the first class meeting. You will complete the rest of the book during the course. It is an accessible literary work that provides valuable insights into the Middle East from the perspective of ordinary citizens and gives depth to the political science scholarship you will encounter in this course.

QUIZZES
Occasional surprise quizzes based on reading assignments will be given. They are intended to provide a continuing incentive for you to keep up with the readings.

PRESENTATIONS
Students will make one in-class presentation based on a case study, either singly or in pairs, depending on the number of students in the course.

WRITING ASSIGNMENTS
The writing assignments aim to help you synthesize concepts learnt and hone writing ability. Papers will be graded on quality of writing as well as content. They should demonstrate analytical thinking and skillful discussion of ideas rather than a mere regurgitation of information from class lectures or reading notes.

There are TWO writing assignments in this course. They are short papers (about 4 pages each) for which prompts are provided and draw on assigned readings (no additional research required).

Papers should be submitted by the deadline. Late papers will receive a full-grade deduction as penalty (e.g., an “A” becomes a “B”). Papers that are not submitted after 12 hours past the deadline will receive an automatic 0 score.
Papers should be standard sized, printed in 12-point Times New Roman style, and double-spaced. Please number the pages. No cover page is necessary.

EACH PAPER MUST BE YOUR OWN WORK. You may discuss ideas in it with others and refer to published authorities. You are encouraged to visit writing tutors at the Altshuler Learning Enhancement Center (see below). But the final written work must be your own. You may not re-use work completed for another course. You may also not recycle work from the earlier assignment for the later assignment in this course.

Academic dishonesty in any form is a serious offence. See SMU’s Honor Code. Ignorance is not an acceptable excuse. Violations include but are not limited to those stated in the Code. When in doubt about what is acceptable, ask. I am required to refer academic misconduct to the university’s Honor Council if confronted with evidence of academic dishonesty.

CONTACTING THE INSTRUCTOR
My contact information is found at the top of this syllabus. The best time to meet face-to-face is immediately after class. If you have questions that do not require a face-to-face meeting, email is the best way to get in touch.

IF YOU NEED ACADEMIC HELP
If you believe you are having trouble keeping up with the demands of the course despite honest effort on your part, please let me know. The sooner you seek help, the less likely you are to find yourself in academic trouble when it is too late.

Also remember that student and faculty tutors, including writing specialists, are available at the Altshuler Learning Enhancement Center to help you. THEY ARE THERE FOR YOU. Make the most of them. (A-LEC: http://smu.edu/alec/ 214.768.3648)

DISABILITY, RELIGIOUS, AND EXTRACURRICULAR ACTIVITIES

* Disability Accommodations: Students needing academic accommodations for a disability must first contact Ms. Rebecca Marin, Coordinator, Services for Students with Disabilities (214-768-4557) to verify the disability and establish eligibility for accommodations. They should then schedule an appointment with the professor to make appropriate arrangements. (See University Policy No. 2.4.)

* Religious Observance: Religiously observant students wishing to be absent on holidays that require missing class should notify their professors in writing at the beginning of the semester, and should discuss with them, in advance, acceptable ways of making up any work missed because of the absence. (See University Policy No. 1.9.)

* Excused Absences for University Extracurricular Activities: Students participating in an officially sanctioned, scheduled University extracurricular activity should be given the opportunity to make up class assignments or other graded assignments missed as a result of their participation. It is the responsibility of the student to make arrangements with the instructor prior to any missed scheduled examination or other missed assignment for making up the work.
