The Multistate Performance Test (MPT) is designed to test an applicant's ability to use fundamental lawyering skills in a realistic situation by completing a task which a beginning lawyer should be able to accomplish. The MPT consists of two 90-minute problems, in which the examinee is furnished with a file of source documents and a library of research material to be used in accomplishing the designated task. The MPT requires examinees to:

- (1) sort detailed factual materials and separate relevant facts;
- (2) analyze statutory, case, and administrative materials for principles of law;
- (3) apply the law to the relevant facts in a manner likely to resolve a client's problem;
- (4) identify and resolve ethical dilemma, when present;

In addition to Legal Research & Writing, clinics, externships, and a variety of other courses provide opportunities to develop these skills.
