4. Submit Application: Download Application, complete, sign and initial application, then submit online via Symplicity ID # 21952. Deadline to submit your Lottery Application online is 5:00 p.m. on Monday, March 29, 2021.

5. Drawing and Waiting List: If your name is drawn for a Clinic slot, your name will be entered on the roll for that Clinic and your name will not be placed on any waiting list. W.W. Caruth, Jr. Child Advocacy Clinic: Fall 2021
https://www.smu.edu/Law/Clinics/Caruth

Our Clients

We represent abused and neglected children in child welfare cases in Dallas County in a dual role of attorney/guardian ad litem or as their attorney. We also represent young adults who have aged out of foster care in certain selected legal matters.

Considerations

- Mandatory orientation Thurs., Aug. 12 (3-5 pm) & Fri., Aug. 13 (9a.m.-5 p.m.)
- You should expect to spend an average of 15 hours each week on casework and class work. The workload fluctuates with case events.
- You will likely handle from 2-3 cases, sometimes with a partner, sometimes on your own (with Director supervision).
- You will handle at least one, probably two, and possibly more court hearings.
- You will need to visit your child clients at least once a month and will otherwise need to conduct “fieldwork” investigation activities around the Dallas area (and occasionally beyond).

Legal Experience

You will represent your clients first chair at all hearings, mediations, and trial, with the close supervision of the Director. You will interview child clients (or youth clients) and their family members, investigate the facts of the case, protect the interests of the children while in foster care, and advocate for the child’s needs, informally and through motion practice.

Class Experience

Class occurs twice a week and explores child welfare law, oral and written advocacy, interviewing and counseling, trial preparation, and trial advocacy skills.

Guest speakers provide an interdisciplinary perspective on the law.

Interaction is emphasized. Class often consist of “rounds” where Clinic cases are discussed among the class as a law firm with a Clinic student leading the discussion. Classes also include simulated or “mock” court and investigative situations - but based on real Clinic cases to help you prepare to represent your clients.

Supervision and Mentoring happens through one-on-one pre-scheduled weekly meetings with the Director.

Community Interaction

Among other things, you will collaborate on a podcast, conceived of and developed by Clinic students, where youth who aged out of the child welfare system are given a voice.
CIVIL/CONSUMER CLINIC
4 CREDITS SUMMER 2021
5 CREDITS FALL 2021

PRACTICE LAW
ON BEHALF OF REAL CLIENTS

Students in the Civil Clinic represent clients with real problems in litigation and negotiation as Associate Members of the State Bar of Texas under the supervision of clinic faculty. In recent semesters, students have represented clients in landlord-tenant disputes, real estate litigation, and matters involving credit and debt. In earlier semesters, clinic students have secured U-Visas for immigrant clients, tracked down stolen cars and the “ring” engaged in scam sales, helped a client enforce an elder healthcare employment contract, and stepped in to enforce a roofing contract.

In addition to the direct representation students provide, they also engage in outreach and education in the community. In past semesters, students have also engaged in legislative advocacy on access-to-justice and consumer-related issues. Clinic students have staffed a monthly courthouse-based clinic for self-represented litigants in Dallas County and routinely provided assistance to tenants in coordination with the Housing Crisis Center. In Summer and Fall 2021, we anticipate that students will staff the SMU COVID Helpline providing legal assistance to callers impacted by the pandemic.

While all student work is supervised by a clinic faculty member, the student is first chair. Students work and learn in all aspects of the lawyering process. They conduct client and witness interviews, fact investigation, legal research, and problem solving. They are responsible for advising and counseling their clients regarding available options, conducting negotiations and mediations, and if needed, engaging in litigation. Clinic students handle all aspects of litigation including case planning, drafting pleadings and discovery, conducting negotiations and mediations, taking and defending depositions, and serving as lead counsel in the courtroom where they handle motion practice and hearings, trials and appeals.

Clinic faculty select cases that raise interesting legal and factual issues and that expose students to disputes and contested legal issues. Faculty try to keep caseloads small to allow students to fully explore the facts and legal issues of each case and to ensure that students provide excellent legal representation to their clients.

TIME COMMITMENT

In the FALL 2021 semester, Clinic students should expect to spend a minimum of 15 hours each week on clinic-related work including preparing for and attending the clinic lawyering seminar, interviewing potential new clients, and handling their assigned casework. There is a mandatory classroom component: SUMMER 2021: Classes will be held twice weekly via Zoom at a time to be determined by the students and professor. FALL 2021: Classes will meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9:30 a.m. to 10:45 a.m.

Students also participate in weekly supervisory conferences where they work with faculty to develop their lawyering skills, discuss ethical issues, and review other dimensions of client representation including the dynamics of client decision making. In scheduling other courses, students should take into account the flexibility that is needed to represent clinic clients and should not take a larger than normal course load.

MANDATORY ORIENTATION
No Waivers!
- SUMMER 2021: Thur., May 13, All Day
- FALL 2021: Thur., August 12, All Day
The Criminal Clinic provides law students a combination of academic and experiential learning through the practice of criminal defense law in the Dallas County Criminal Courts. Criminal Clinic student attorneys act as trial counsel- arguing everything from a motion to suppress evidence with live police witnesses to a jury trial!

Clinic student attorneys primarily represent low-income clients charged with misdemeanor offenses in the Dallas County Criminal Courts. Some of the most common charges include: Assault, Criminal Mischief, Criminal Trespass, DWI, Possession of Marijuana, Prostitution, Theft, and Unlawfully Carrying a Weapon. Clinic student attorneys may also represent individuals convicted of a felony at probation hearings.

YOU will be the attorney and engage in investigation, interviewing, discovery, plea negotiations, case planning, motion practice and trial. With the assistance of the supervising attorneys, you will be handling real cases and represent real clients. To learn about the kind of work Criminal Clinic student attorneys engage in, please take a look at the Criminal Clinic webpage and click on the section on the right side of the page. <https://www.smu.edu/Law/Clinics/Criminal-Clinic>

SMU’s Criminal Clinic is in its 43rd year. The supervising attorneys have been practicing criminal defense law for over a combined 85 years. Criminal Clinic Associate Director Mike McCollum has been with the Clinic for more than 40 years and Criminal Clinic Associate Director Debbie Sanchez is a former prosecutor with the Dallas District Attorney’s Office and has been in private practice for over 23 years. The bulk of her practice involves representing individuals charged with felony offenses. The supervising attorneys certify to the Court that we will properly train and supervise you.

Your responsibility to the Clinic and your clients requires a substantial commitment on your part. Your time commitment to the Clinic is a minimum of 20 hours per week (total of at least 255 hours for the semester). This includes time spent at the courthouse, office hours (you must log 3 hours per week during business hours in the criminal clinic library) and class time. Mandatory classes are on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons from 3:30 p.m. to 4:45 p.m. In scheduling your other courses, you should take into account the flexibility you need to represent clients. It is highly recommended that you do not register for morning classes because you will be at the courthouse almost every day and court takes up most of the morning – do not schedule 9 or 10 o’clock classes in order to avoid conflicts.

The clinic is a one semester, graded course. We will enroll up to 12 students for the fall semester for 6 credits. Due to the nature of trial preparation, the time commitment to the Criminal Clinic may exceed the minimum 20-hour per week requirement. Additionally, clinic assignments will include short reflective/observation papers, a trial notebook and meeting to review case file management.

To be eligible for the Criminal Clinic, you must be a student in good academic standing and you must have completed at least one-third (29 hours) of the credits required for graduation.

Evidence is a required co-requisite class, meaning you must have either already taken Evidence or be scheduled to take Evidence at the same time you would be in the Criminal Clinic. Recommended classes are Professional Responsibility and Texas Criminal Procedure.

Student selection for the Criminal Clinic is part of the general clinic pre-registration process.

MANDATORY TWO-DAY ORIENTATION: August 12 & 13, 2021 all day.
If you MUST DROP Criminal Clinic, you MUST RECEIVE PERMISSION by notifying Administrative Assistant Gloria Zapata at gzapata@smu.edu, by 5 p.m. on Monday August 2, 2021, who will then contact Director Chris Jenks, Associate Director Debbie Sanchez, and Associate Director Mike McCollum.
The First Amendment Clinic, funded by the Stanton Foundation, focuses on First Amendment issues including free speech, freedom of the press, and freedom of assembly and petition.

Director, Tom Leatherbury, co-head of Vinson & Elkins’ Appellate Practice, regularly represents traditional and digital publishers, as well as broadcasters, in all aspects of media litigation, including libel, privacy and other torts, reporter's privilege, newsgathering and access, misappropriation, and breach of contract actions. Prior to joining SMU, he worked on cases with First Amendment clinics at Yale Law School and at Cornell Law School.

Clinic Fellow, Michael Shapiro, is a newspaper reporter turned media lawyer. He began his legal career at Reporters Committee for Freedom of the Press, a nonprofit that litigates on behalf of journalists and press groups. Before coming to SMU, he worked as an in-house lawyer at NBCUniversal.

The Clinic expects to represent individuals and media organizations, both non-profit and for-profit, in a range of matters that could include:

- Defamation defense
- Texas Citizens Participation Act proceedings (anti-SLAPP)
- Motions to obtain access to court records and courtroom proceedings
- Challenges to gag orders in criminal and civil cases
- Motions to quash subpoenas of journalists
- Claims defending/advancing the rights of petition or assembly
- Pre-publication review of news articles
- Amicus briefs on First Amendment issues

The Innocence Clinic is a combination of academic and practical experience affording the participants the privilege of practicing post-conviction law on several cases out of the Dallas County Felony Courts.

Clinic participants review the cases of individuals who have been convicted of crimes, sentenced to prison and who now claim actual innocence. Some of the most common charges you will handle for your clients include: Murder, Sexual Assault, and Aggravated Robbery. As the student attorney, you will engage in any or all of the following: locating and reviewing original trial records; searching for and identifying remaining evidence, if any; analyzing cases for viability; submission of evidence for additional testing; interviewing potential witnesses; communicating with clients, including face-to-face meetings either in the county jail or the assigned prison unit; interacting with assigned personnel from the District Attorney’s Office; identifying and communicating with potential experts; drafting briefs, motions and proposed Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law.

This is the seventh year for SMU’s Innocence Clinic. Innocence Clinic Supervising Attorney Chris Young has been with Dallas County since 2005 and during that time, he has served as an Assistant District Attorney for the Dallas County District Attorney’s Office and most recently as Assistant Public Defender where he currently leads the Dallas County Public Defender’s Office Exoneration Unit.

With the assistance of the supervising attorney, you will be handling real cases involving real clients. Your responsibility to the Clinic and your clients goes beyond the classroom and requires a substantial commitment on your part. Your time commitment to the Clinic is a minimum of 12 hours per week. This includes time spent at the courthouse, office hours and class time. The classroom portion of the course will meet weekly for one hour. In scheduling your other courses, you should take into account the flexibility you need to represent clients.

The clinic is a single semester, graded course. Clinic assignments will include weekly clinic meeting participation, written case history/overview, status reports, timesheets, periodic memos to the files, and closing memo submitted by each student at stated intervals during the year.

To be eligible for the Innocence Clinic, you must be a student in good academic standing, you must have completed at least one-third (29 hours) of the credits required for graduation by the end of the Spring 2021 semester, and be eligible for a student bar card. Student selection for the Innocence Clinic is done as part of the general clinic pre-registration process.
