Welcome to Dallas/Fort Worth!

The cities of Dallas and Fort Worth are the heart of the North Texas region, which is the fourth-largest metropolitan area in the United States. The region overlooks mostly prairie land and includes primarily man-made lakes cut by streams, creeks and rivers. Comprised of 64 municipalities with a population of more than 10,000 inhabitants, the region represents an economic and cultural hub within the Lone Star State.

Dallas is a booming city with a population of more than 1.2 million people; it is the ninth-largest city in the country. In 1841, John Neeley Bryan established the city by building a single log cabin near the Trinity River. The arrival of the first two railroads in 1872 and 1873 brought boom days for Dallas County, making it an important regional center for trade. Since then, Dallas has quickly urbanized, earning a reputation for luxury, southern hospitality, and entrepreneurship. As the region grew, Dallas also embraced a mix of culture and commerce by investing in what is now the largest urban arts district in the nation.

According to the U.S. Census Bureau, Fort Worth was the fastest growing large city with more than 500,000 population between 2000 and 2010. While the city is home to approximately 750,000 inhabitants today, the city was established as a small Army outpost in 1849. Once a new line of forts were built further west, settlers took possession of the site. Fort Worth's history is largely shaped by the cattle industry, where the Chisholm Trail ran from the 1860s to the 1870s. The city celebrates its western heritage with a distinctive mix of "Cowboys and Culture," which can be seen in both the Historic Stockyards District or at one of the many world-class art museums within the Cultural District.

MEETING

9:00 – 10:30 a.m.

Fort Worth Republican Women

TOPIC: Judge Allen will assemble a panel of FWRW members to provide an overview of how the organization promotes women's participation in leadership, politics, and community outreach.

Fort Worth Republican Women (FWRW) seeks to support Republican candidates, to promote leadership, strength, and unity for political action, to undertake campaign projects and special assignments in cooperation with the Republican Party organization, to train and prepare women with tools and information to become more effective campaigners, leaders and public servants, and to plan local and statewide meetings for FWRW members and the general electorate. Members also participate in projects that support the Fort Worth community, including The Ladder Alliance and FWRW Dictionary Project.

Judge Allen has presided over hundreds of bench and jury trials in the areas of estates, guardianship, mental health, and litigation related to estates and guardianship. Prior to taking the bench, she was voted a "Top Attorney" by Fort Worth Magazine and a "Rising Star" by Texas Lawyer. She was also named "Attorney of the Year" by the Fort Worth Paralegal Association. Before taking the bench, Judge Allen was the Tarrant County Republican Party attorney and worked as a member of the Tarrant County Republican Party Executive Committee and a Precinct Chair. She continues to serve as President of Fort Worth Republican Women and is a member of many conservative groups throughout Tarrant County and the State.

Dallas Museum of Art

Located in the vibrant Arts District of downtown Dallas, Texas, the Dallas Museum of Art (DMA), ranks among the leading art institutions in the country and is distinguished by its innovative exhibitions, groundbreaking educational programs, and global collection. In 1984 the DMA moved to its current location, the 370,000-square-foot Edward Larrabee Barnes–designed building, as the first arts organization in the Dallas Arts District. The Museum’s global collection contains over 22,000 works of art spanning 5,000 years of human creativity. The growing collection includes one of the most important museum holdings of modern and contemporary art in the U.S., as well as strong holdings of the arts of the ancient Americas, Africa, and South Asia, and in European and American painting, sculpture and decorative arts. The DMA acts as a catalyst for community activity and a showcase for the performing arts, engaging people of all ages and backgrounds with a diverse spectrum of programs, from exhibitions and lectures to concerts, literary readings and dramatic and dance presentations. Museum entrance is free!

MEETING

2:30 – 4:00 p.m.

Executive Women's Forum International

TOPIC: Ms. Cornell and Ms. Carter will discuss EWF International and how their executive level programs equip and empower women in management with the tools, strategies, and insights to drive success. They will also talk about the importance of developing peer circles.

Executive Women's Forum International was founded in 1998 with a focus on training and consulting. EWF International increased its impact by adding Women Business Forums to facilitate leadership development and business growth, educational events, and coaching for women in business, and an Emerging Leaders Program to equip and empower leaders rising through the ranks. Today, EWF International focuses on increasing the representation of women in senior leadership and business ownership by providing resources, community, and support throughout women's leadership lifecycle.

Tanis Cornell possesses a broad background in senior leadership positions ranging from Fortune 500 to start up environments. Featured in Sales and Marketing Management Magazine, Tanis helps organizations in rapidly growing their business and developing the organizational structure needed to succeed. A former competitive speech teacher, Tanis is a sought-after speaker on women's career issues, business growth, and marketing issues. As the CEO and Dallas Co-Owner of EWF International, she relates to the challenges women business owners and executives face. She is passionate about helping women leaders grow their business and increase their effectiveness. She strives to help women gain the skills and knowledge needed to excel and meet their personal and professional goals. As an accredited executive coach and a certified Lumina Learning practitioner, Tanis works with individuals, leadership teams, and department teams. She helps to increase a team's self-awareness with practical development to assess and improve communication, teamwork, and leadership. She delivers customized development programs and workshops designed to help individuals and teams become more effective leaders and employees.

Jennifer Carter's specialty is deeply understanding people. Her coaching leadership drives greater performance, improves companies' ability to drive organizational alignment, and helps clients forge meaningful brand relationships with customers (and employees). Jennifer leverages her emotional intelligence, behavioral insights, and deep strategy expertise to help her clients achieve unparalleled success. This insight into people couples with more than 15 years' experience in brand management, marketing and communications, change management, organizational strategy, leadership coaching, professional facilitation, and performance optimization. This makes her a sought-after advisor, coach, mentor, and consultant for business leaders across many sectors. These include academia, financial services, technology, telecommunications, non-profit, and many more. As President and Dallas co-owner of Executive Women's Forums (EWF) International – the premier network of executive women who support and inspire each other's leadership and ambition – Jennifer returns to a core passion: equipping and empowering female leaders so that they achieve new heights and grow their companies to new levels of success.

Ms. Paige Flink, CEO
The Family Place

TOPIC: Ms. Flink will discuss the work of The Family Place in empowering victims of family violence, building community engagement, and advocating for social change to stop family violence.

In 1978 a group of community volunteers organized The Family Place as one of the first family violence shelters in the state. Today The Family Place is the largest family violence service provider in North Texas, with three emergency shelters providing 177 shelter beds each night, including the state's only shelter for men and children. The Family Place served 13,016 clients with 169,672 hours of service last year alone. Over the past 41 years, The Family Place has counseled more than 216,500 clients, provided lifesaving shelter to more than 25,000 women, men and children, and answered more than 615,000 calls for help. The Family Place has helped more than 19,000 batterers learn how to change their abusive behavior and reach approximately 6,500 students each year through our youth education programs. All of its programs are provided in Spanish and in English.

Real Women Have Curves

“Real Women Have Curves” will be presented by Dallas Theater Center at the Kalita Humphreys Theater April 26-May 19. Directed by Christie Vela and written by Josefina Lopez, the play was first produced as a film. The play follows recent high school graduate, Ana, who dreams of going to college and becoming a writer. For now she is stuck working in her sister’s garment factory in East Los Angeles. The hours are long and the pay is low, but Ana grows to appreciate the strength, passion and dedication of the women she works with. The ladies struggle with such things as personal as body image and as consequential as the threat of deportation. But they still find joy, humor and beauty in their relationships with one another, and within themselves.
