[Tobacco] The Plug That Jack Chews. Compliments of Drummond Tobacco Co., St. Louis, Mo. St. Louis: Woodward & Tiernan, ca. 1890. [12] pp, each page with an attractive color engraving. Text is written in the form of a poem. James T. Drummond [1834-1897] founded the Drummond Tobacco Company in St. Louis. He also served as the mayor of Alton, Illinois, from 1868 to 1871. In the late 1890s the Company was acquired by American Tobacco Company and Liggett & Meyers, and its name was changed. Drummond is credited with introducing Chesterfield, Cannon and Drum cigarettes. Illustrations include a picture of Uncle Jack, a black woman by the name of “Aunt Levinny” working the field, and several of tobacco in various forms. The entire booklet is written in rhyme, following a serial style similar to the old nursery favorite, “This is the House that Jack Built.” It begins with Uncle Jack chewing his favorite Horse Shoe tobacco and continues on with the story of how it’s prepared. “This is the licorice and sugar, sweet, The purest made and mixed so neat, On Kentucky leaf, the finest grown. That goes in the plug that Jack chews.” Not in Winterthur, Romaine, or on OCLC. Not located in NUC.

[Iowa] [Lawrence] Description of the town of Lawrence, Van Buren County, in the Des Moines Valley, Iowa: Its hydraulic power and manufacturing facilities. Keokuk : J.B. Howell & Company, Printers, 1856. 11, [1 blank] pp. Van Buren County is located in southeast Iowa. The Town of Lawrence, located on the Des Moines River thirty miles above Keokuk, does not seem to exist today. In 1856 its boosters-- from the Lawrence Coal Company, organized in January 1856-- had high hopes that it would share in Iowa’s “wonderful progress and magic-life growth.” These expectations were based on Lawrence’s “abundant supply of water power,” its location on “a beautiful level plain, sufficiently elevated above the River to secure the highest sanitary advantages,” its natural resources, and strategic location for transportation facilities. Directors and Officers of the Coal Company are listed on page 11, with a statement of its mission and capitalization. Graff 1060. OCLC lists four holdings: Yale, Grinnell, Newberry, Wisconsin Historical Society.

[Manuscripts] Henry Heil Chemical Co., St. Louis Mo. Collection of letters, brochures, flyers, catalogues, and other miscellaneous printed and typed material sent to this "Chemicals and Chemical Apparatus" supply company, ca. 1907-1916. ¶ The collection consists of over 650 pieces representing hundreds of letters, from approximately 250 different firms, and includes approximately 130 different catalogues and brochures. The letters—on company letterheads, some being elaborate, illustrated engraved letterheads—discuss in detail specific information on product features, availability, prices and terms. The Heil Company noted that its customer base was "mines, smelters, iron & steel works, schools, colleges, and universities." As such, the correspondence here—all from the suppliers to Heil—represent a wide range of products for testing or manufacturing such—hydrometers, thermometers, crucibles, nicotine insecticides, ovens, gas torches and lamps, water filtrations systems, heaters, as well as such products as Japanese paper, vegetable coloring, gloves... with correspondence from such firms as F. Behrend (stoneware apparatus), Terrill Gas Machine Lighting Co., C.G. Tagliabue (measuring instruments), Graham Chemical Pottery Works, and many letters and printed lists from Ward's Natural History Establishment (Rochester), with the typescript of Heil's 1914 Price List "Summary of Collections of Minerals and Rocks" (11ff, legal) with a letter from Heil to Ward, its major supplier of said material, about said offering ("We never make discounts to schools or student on anything in the line of minerals and rocks"). ¶ Heil communicated to its customers through large printed trade catalogues. This Collection gives an excellent inside picture of the relationship between a distributor and the hundreds of small firms that supplied very specialized products.

A very detailed summary, with a two-page list of businesses and trades, according to which Dodge County had already come a long way. Founded in 1854, its first town, Fontenelle, "consisted of four white men and an Indian. Three of the white men were officers and the other white man and the Indian their constituents." Fremont became the county seat in 1860. OCLC lists copies at Yale and Council Bluffs Public Library.

[Oil] L'Art du Graissage. Orné de 25 dessins inédits... Paris: A le Belle edition, 1920. Square 8vo. [35]pp + six full-page hand-colored plates. With extra title-page printed in green and light-blue, on different paper stock. Issued in 103 numbered copies—but this copy unnumbered. Bound in marbled boards with illustrator and title stamped on spine. With the hand-colored bookplate of French poet René Chalupt (1885-1957, best-known for his work with composers such as Eric Satie and Darius Milhaud). Illustrations are said to be printed by pochoir methods (using stencils) but these plates and text illustrations are hand-colored. The regular issue from the publisher was in printed wrappers. ¶ Poetic and artistic treatment of lubrication and oil.. from extraction through processing and end-use... produced in a limited edition from a Parisian distributor of American and Russian oil products, some under the firm's own "Spidoléine" brand as well as "Shamrock," Volgaline" and others. At the end there are eight pages listing and describing these numerous petroleum products—so the piece is a kind of fine-press illustrated trade catalogue. The six colored plates show different petroleum-related scenes, while the numerous vignette and chapter head- and tail-pieces depict people driving, gears, tractors, more driving, etc. The text describes the use and importance of lubrication and the various properties of the material.

Three copies located in OCLC (Cornell, Harvard, and the University of Texas at Austin). Jessie Andrews was the first woman graduate of the University of Texas at Austin (1886) and the first woman faculty member, teaching in the German Department. In 1918 she resigned her position in protesting German policies in W.W.I. She died a year later, probably of influenza, as the cause of death was listed as pneumonia. One of the women's residence halls is named for Jessie Andrews or "Miss Jessie" as she was called on campus. When she graduated the other graduates, all male, gave her a gold medal with the five point star and seal of Texas, and when a chapter of Phi Beta Kappa was established in 1904, she was elected to membership. Purchased on the Budner Endowment.

[Schemes] Valhalla Memorial and Mausoleum Park. Los Angeles, 1923. 4to, folded into thin 8vo case. 60ff (printed on rectos), some in color. Original salesman's sample working book for promoting this land development scheme in San Fernando Valley. The kit includes proposed views, data on comparable facilities, information on the development. The aim here was not to sell final resting spots but to sell cemetery plots as investments, with eight pages of testimonials from buyers who made substantial profits (e.g., 800%) in a matter of months. Includes 13ff of application material. The developers were successful on one front, with some plots turning over (as it were) 16 times. The State of California was not, however, impressed with the business model and the financiers behind the scheme—John R. Osborne and C.C. Fitzpatrick—were convicted of fraud, fined, and each spent almost five years in jail. The State took over ownership of the 63-acre cemetery and it eventually moved into private hands. Valhalla still exists in its more traditional format, and became a favorite final resting spot for actors and aviators. This inside piece provides some (unintentional) background to the subject covered in Evelyn Waugh's 1948 satiric novel on the funeral business in Los Angeles, The Loved One. Not located in OCLC.

[Travels] [Begiebing, Emil] Texas-Mexico Trip. Our Party—Bertha, Carolyn, and George Bedford, and Emil Begiebing. April 4, 1938—May 15, 1938. Texas-Mexico Trip. 8433 Miles [photo caption on p.1]. [No place, 1938]. Oblong 8vo photograph album, with 151 original tipped-in snapshots (3.5 x 5.5 in), each with a brief typed caption slip mounted on the album leaf beside each photograph [spaces for an additional 25 photos are lacking, with those photos either long removed or fallen out]. ¶ Photographic record, with accompanying narrative text, of this quartet's auto trip to Texas, beginning somewhere in New York State, in the spring of 1938. The route took them through the South to New Orleans, and then over to south Texas-- with stops (and photographs) of Houston, Alice, Point Isabella, Brownsville, and the Lower Rio Grande region-- then into Mexico, passing through Monterey to Mexico City, Puebla (and the nearby ruins). Ostensibly, one of the reasons for this trip was, in fact, for the two men to check up on investments that they apparently had in Texas, including a cottage construction project in Los Ebanos and grapefruit groves in Barreda, near the border. The party visited numerous ranches and farms—especially various fruit groves where the owners graciously gave them tours. The photographs are a pleasing combination of views of the landscapes, of the roads—some very rough, especially the highways "system" in Mexico—of the various small towns, and of the few larger ones visited. The photographs and captions are in very good condition. The total photographs here include 35 recording the pre-Texas portion of the journey, 76 photographs taken in Texas, and 40 photographs taken in Mexico. There are also five real-photo postcards tipped in. Overall an interesting account of a combination pleasure-business trip by auto to the Southwest and Mexico in the 1930s.
