Edwin L. Cox School of Business

rom its beginning as SMU's Department of Commerce to its current position as one of the nation's top-ranked business schools, the Edwin L. Cox School of Business has educated business leaders for more than 90 years.

Named in 1978 in honor of Dallas businessman Edwin L. Cox, the Cox School has a rich heritage that began in 1920 when the SMU Board of Trustees established a Department of Commerce at the request of the Dallas business community. In 1921, the Department of Commerce was renamed the School of Commerce. In 1941, the Board of Trustees established the School of Commerce as the School of Business Administration, and the new bachelor of business administration degree (BBA) was approved.

The graduate program at the School of Business Administration began in 1949 with the authorization of a master of business administration (MBA) program. Both the BBA and the MBA degree programs are accredited by the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB).

In 1952, SMU broke ground for the Joseph Wylie Fincher Memorial Building for the School of Business Administration, and for years the Fincher Building housed all activities of the Cox School. In 1987, the Fincher Building was renovated, and two buildings were added: the Cary M. Maguire Building and the Trammell Crow Building. In 2005, SMU Cox added the James M. Collins Executive Education Center, making the Cox School complex one of the most technologically advanced business learning facilities in the country.

The SMU Foundation for Business Administration was established in 1965. This group of advisers has helped guide the Cox School throughout the years and today is known as the Executive Board. Also instrumental in supporting the Cox School are members of its two successful mentoring programs: the Associate Board Program for MBA students and the Business Associates Program for BBA students. These two boards involve more than 300 business leaders who volunteer their time and expertise to the Cox School and its students.

The school has undergone changes throughout its history, but its central purpose remains constant to develop business leaders who are both liberally educated and professionally competent. More than 2,400 students working toward undergraduate and graduate degrees are enrolled in the Cox School. We are proud to offer an outstanding business education and to have earned our national and international reputation for excellence and innovation.

Remembering Haotian Chen

M.S. IN BUSINESS ANALYTICS CANDIDATE, MAY 2019

The SMU community would like to take a moment to recognize a student we unexpectedly lost earlier this school year. Haotian Chen passed away on December 23, 2018. He moved to Dallas in August of 2018 from Gainesville, Florida. He was in pursuit of a Master's degree in Business Analytics from the Edwin L. Cox School of Business. During his time at SMU, Haotian was able to make an impact in the classroom while also developing great friendships with his classmates. The SMU community will forever treasure the blessing of our time with Hoatian.

Remembering Madison "Maddie" Duffey M.S. IN ACCOUNTING CANDIDATE, MAY 2019

Maddie was an active member of our Master of Science in Accounting Class of 2019. She loved fashion and received her bachelor's degree from SMU which included a minor in Arts and Fashion Media. Her goal was to meld this passion with her MSA degree and work in an accounting position for a fashion company. Maddie grew up dancing; she was accomplished in Pointe, Tap, Ballet and Jazz. As she grew, her love for her family and friends shone, and when she got to SMU she actively participated in and loved her campus, as well as her sorority, Chi Omega. She enjoyed traveling and the beach, and was baptized and confirmed in the United Methodist Church, which was very important to her. At an early age, even before her diagnosis, Maddie was heavily involved with the Polycystic Kidnev Disorder fundraising events and walks, due to a family history of the disease. Her loving parents believe that this disease taught her strength, courage and determination.

In recognition of the alumni and friends of the Edwin L. Cox School of Business whose generosity has provided scholarship assistance and academic awards for the 2018 – 2019 academic year

The Academic Procession

The academic procession and the regalia worn by the faculty and officers of the University symbolically represent the continuing link between the modern American university and the founding of the great medieval universities in Europe – chief among them Bologna, Paris and Oxford. As those institutions were derived from the Catholic Church, the universities adapted many of the ceremonial trappings of the Church in their official public functions.

The caps and gowns worn in the procession vary from place to place. There are variations in design to indicate the degrees held by the wearers, and many universities in America have introduced colorful gowns and other distinguishing details (in place of the customary clerical black from which all originated). The bachelor's gown is a simple robe falling in straight lines from an elaborate yoke. Its distinguishing characteristic is the long pointed sleeves. The master's gown is arranged so that the arm emerges from a long sleeve through a slit at the wrist (replacing a former slit at the elbow). In most cases, the doctor's gown is marked by velvet panels down the front and around the neck and by three bars of the same material on the bell-shaped sleeves.

The caps, too, vary according to the customs of the university from which the wearer received a degree. While most American universities have adopted the "mortarboard" style of Oxford, others have chosen styles based on other European institutions. The color of the tassel worn with the cap may be black for any degree, the color may be that of the faculty of the major field, or officials of institutions are entitled to wear tassels of gold metallic thread. Such tassels are usually sewn in place. It is common practice, although not universal, that a ceremony is made of moving the tassel from the right side to the left of the cap at the moment the degree is awarded.

Within the great varieties of styles and colors in gowns and caps, there has been one universally accepted code for the hood worn trailing down the wearer's back. Originally, it was like the hood on the habit worn by monks – and was very useful for protection against the weather and even for begging for alms. Today, the hood through length and color shows the degree and the specialization of the wearer, and the university that granted the degree. The bachelor's, master's and doctor's hoods are three feet, three and one-half feet and four feet long, respectively. The velvet trimming in the same order is two, three and five inches wide. The color of the trim identifies the faculty. A partial list of faculty colors follows:

Arts, Letters, Humanities: White Fine Arts: Brown Philosophy: Dark Blue
Business: Drab Law: Purple Science: Golden Yellow
Engineering: Orange Music: Pink Theology: Scarlet

The lining of the hood (that portion most visible from the rear) indicates the institution awarding the degree. SMU's hood lining, for example, is blue with a red chevron. Through these colorful ceremonies, SMU symbolically displays the continuity of its educational purposes with the origins of organized learning in the Western world.

From a commentary written by Thomas R. Arp, Professor Emeritus of English, SMU, and Lorn L. Howard, Professor Emeritus of Electrical Engineering, SMU.

Varsity

Oh we see the Varsity,
Varsity, Varsity,
As she towers o'er the hill
Over there.
And our hearts are filled with joy,
SMU, SMU,
Alma Mater, we'll be true
Forever!
