Southern Methodist University is a private liberal arts university, founded in 1911, and located in the heart of metropolitan Dallas, Texas. The university is nationally ranked in U.S. News & World Report's Guide to Colleges. Faculty members enjoy small classes and a dynamic and growing program. SMU is home to the Bush Library and Institute, which opened in April 2013. The community provides ample opportunities for student internships and service-learning experiences as well as research opportunities for faculty.

The Division is a highly competitive undergraduate program serving 140+ students in the Meadows School of the Arts. Undergraduate students are provided with a thorough understanding of the theory and applied skills of the communication field. The program prepares students for graduate scholarship and to work as communication professionals in corporations, non-profit organizations, agencies, political campaigns, government, and cultural and educational institutions. The Division also offers experiential-learning classes in London, New York, Washington D.C., and Taos, as well as robust faculty relationships and student internships with the Bush Library and Institute.

Salary is competitive and commensurate with experience and credentials. Please submit cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, and evidence of teaching effectiveness via Interfolio link: <https://apply.interfolio.com/65757>. The application cycle begins October 1, 2019.

The committee will begin its review of applications on or about November 12, 2019. To ensure full consideration for the position, the application must be submitted by November 1, 2019, but the committee will continue to accept applications until the position is filled. The committee will notify applicants of its employment decision after the position is filled. Hiring is contingent upon the satisfactory completion of a background check.
