

Featured in the Huffington Post and on parade.com, relevant.com, and beliefnet.com, Jack Levison's writings appeal to a wide popular audience. Eugene Peterson, author of The Message, considers him "the most competent scholar and clearest writer on the Holy Spirit that I have known." Jack is also an internationally acclaimed scholar. With a BA from Wheaton College, an MA from Cambridge University, where he was a Scholar of Christ's College and winner of the Fitzpatrick Prize for Theology, and a PhD from Duke University, Jack now holds the W. J. A. Power Chair of Old Testament Interpretation and Biblical Hebrew at Perkins School of Theology, Southern Methodist University. The author of many books, both popular and scholarly, he has received funding from the National Humanities Center, the Lilly Fellows Program, the Louisville Institute, the Alexander von Humboldt Foundation, the Rotary Foundation, the International Catacomb Society, and the National Endowment for the Humanities. Jack lives in Dallas, with an office down the hall from his wife of thirty-five years, Priscilla Pope-Levison, who is an associate dean at Perkins School of Theology.