

Samia Siddiqui is the Director of Advising for the Department of Teaching and Learning of the SMU Simmons School of Education and Human Development. She holds a Masters of Arts in Professional Development and Diversity Awareness. Samia has spent the last twenty years of her career working in elementary, secondary, and university environments as a teacher and academic advisor.