GOVERNANCE

The Annette Caldwell Simmons School of Education and Human Development consists of four departments (Applied Physiology & Wellness, Dispute Resolution and Counseling, Education Policy & Leadership, Teaching and Learning) and one program (Graduate Liberal Studies,). The Dean’s Advisory Council is comprised of the following members: Dean, Associate Dean, and Department Chairs.

ORGANIZATIONAL CHART

V5-09.24.18

DEPARTMENTS AND CENTERS

Departments are the fundamental academic units of the School. They sponsor the major academic and pedagogical activities undertaken in the professional lives of faculty members. Departments have the dual responsibility to the School and the University of which they are a part, and to the external disciplines and professional projects and institutions that they represent. Departmental faculty as a whole comprise the will of a given department, and the department as an institution has a responsibility to foster the professional lives of its members. Since faculty spend most of their working lives in the departmental context and since so many fundamental decisions that affect faculty, students and the School are made at the department level, it is important to recognize that departments have considerable impact in the socialization of faculty and in the building of the larger culture of the School. Democratic behavior and collegiality, for example, must be nurtured at the departmental level before they can be expected to flourish in the School faculty as a whole.

FACULTY Handbook

Departments adhere to the following general propositions.

1. Participation and inclusion of all the faculty to the widest possible degree should govern the work of all academic departments.
2. As well as tenured members, non-tenured full-time faculty also may have a voice in matters of general policy, curriculum, and in the hiring of new non-tenured full-time faculty.
3. Faculty members who believe that their departments are not following these principles have the right to present their grievances to the Dean's Advisory Council and the Dean of the School.

The Simmons School houses the following Departments:

- Applied Physiology and Wellness
- Dispute Resolution and Counseling
- Education Policy and Leadership
- Graduate Liberal Studies (Program)
- Teaching and Learning

The Simmons School houses the following Centers and Research entities:

- Applied Physiology Laboratory
- Cerebrovascular Research Lab
- Center on Research and Evaluation
- Integrated Physiology Lab
- Institute for Evidence-Based Education
- Locomotor Performance Laboratory
- Research in Mathematics Education
- The Budd Center
- Institute for Leadership Impact and Global Health

PARTNERSHIPS

Partnerships with external organizations leverage, energize, and broaden the impact of Southern Methodist University as an educational leader in our region. The Simmons School of Education & Human Development (SEHD) therefore welcomes the development of new partnerships consistent with the University's strategic directions and SEHD vision and strategic directions for innovation in education.

Faculty members are encouraged to conceptualize and pursue partnerships associated with their specific professional interests. These endeavors require only close consultation with department chairs, and should be noted on all annual reports submitted to the Office of the Dean. If the partnership involves course releases and impacts teaching load, the chair will be responsible to consult with the Office of the Dean on these matters. These endeavors therefore reflect active engagement within the campus and surrounding community and are considered salient indicators of either service and/or (if for research/publication purposes) scholarship.

FACULTY WORKLOAD POLICY

You will find more information about faculty workload policy 6.2, please click here.

FACULTY OFFICE HOURS (INCLUDE SUMMER)

It is particularly important to set aside regularly scheduled times for students to meet with faculty or reach faculty with their questions. The students should have either faculty work or home telephone number available as well as an e-mail address. The student may also leave messages with the departmental secretary for faculty to return calls. It is important to respond promptly to messages. Unavailability is a particularly sensitive source of irritation to students, most especially in the case of distance education students.

DIGITAL MEASURES

Digital Measures (DM) is the tool that SMU uses to record faculty teaching, research, and service activities at SMU. New Simmons faculty members are added to the DM system by September 1 of every academic year. Returning faculty members' DM accounts are updated with promotions by September 1 as well.

DM is used to generate a Faculty Activity Report (FAR) for every faculty member early each spring. Departments handle the FAR generations differently. Some require the faculty members to generate their own FARs; others generate all of the FARs for all of their faculty members centrally. Consult with your department chair to learn how your department handles them. The courses you teach are included in your DM account, but all courses for a calendar year are uploaded for in December/January.

As per federal law and university policy, all research involving human subjects must be reviewed in advance by the SMU Institutional Review Board (IRB). Although some research is deemed exempt from IRB review, the IRB rather than the investigator must make this determination. Thus, prior to conducting any research study, faculty must contact the SMU IRB for guidance.

CONFLICT OF INTEREST

A conflict of interest may exist when a University Representative's financial, occupational, or other personal considerations may affect (or have the appearance of affecting) his or her professional judgment in exercising a University duty or responsibility. A conflict of interest may exist with respect to a benefit to be derived by the University Representative, by the University Representative's Immediate Family Member, or by an Associated Entity.

The policy exists to ensure that whenever a University Representative makes a decision involving the University's interests, it is those interests that are paramount and so that the University interests will not be compromised or made subordinate to an individual's personal interests.

A faculty member or staff employee who learns of an actual or potential Conflict of interest involving his or her personal interests, the interests of an Immediate Family Member, or the interests of an Associated Entity must promptly make a full disclosure to the General Counsel of the University.

CLASS ROSTER

Official class rolls are distributed the first day of each semester and placed in your mailbox in the respective department.

The departmental program specialists will place any changes pertaining to course rolls in your mailbox. The faculty must work closely with the Office of the Registrar in the verification of class rolls. The timely validation of these rolls is a significant duty of all faculty. A second set of class rolls is distributed after the add/drop period is completed. Faculty should indicate the names of students attending class, but not listed on the class roll, as well as the names of students on the roll, but not attending.

THE COURSE SYLLABUS

Each instructor must have a syllabus for each course taught. Instructors should establish some means of self-evaluation to determine whether or not the goals and objectives of the course are actually achieved. This type of self-evaluation should be done in addition to the student evaluations completed near the end of each course. The more clearly a course is defined in the syllabus, the less likely the instructor will be involved in grade appeals and other administrative problems.

The following information should be included in each course syllabus prepared by instructors teaching courses for the School of Education and Human Development.

- Course Objectives - Provide clear, concise statements that outline the course and define the specific learning goals and objectives that you wish to accomplish by the end of the course.
- Textbooks and Supporting Materials - Include the title, author, publisher, and edition for each major publication to be used during the course. Indicate if the textbook is required for the course, or recommended supplementary reading. If textbook materials have been placed on reserve at SMU Fondren Science Library, this should also be noted.
- General Instructor Information - Students should be informed of the name of the instructor, how you may be contacted during the semester, i.e. telephone, fax number, email, etc., where to leave messages, student consultation and assignments.
- Class Meeting Times - include room number or location of class for on-campus students, the days each week the class will meet, the starting and ending times for classes.
- Grading Scale - If a special grading scale will be used, the students must be informed at the beginning of the course in order to avoid confusion and grade appeals when final grades are posted. If you are using several instruments for grading students, they will also need to know the weighing that will be assigned to each instrument.
- Grading Expectations - Define what your expectations are in order for a student to earn each grade. The students should also be informed on what areas they will be tested, (i.e. textbook material, lecture material, lab work, etc.).

FACULTY Handbook

- Dates and times for Exams, Projects, etc. - Students must be informed when assignments are due, when tests will be given, and your policies regarding late work and make-up examinations.
- General Course Outline - Provide a brief outline of the subject matter to be covered each week. Indicate whether the schedule is subject to change during the semester.
- Field Work - Indicate if any classes will be conducted outside the normal classroom environment so that students have time to make appropriate arrangements concerning travel, procurement of special materials, etc., or if distance students will be required to come to the campus, sending a videotape of a presentation, etc.
- List all course prerequisites.

GRADE APPEALS

Appeals of Grades. A student who feels that an assigned grade is other than the grade earned must discuss the matter first with the course instructor to determine if the discrepancy is caused by error or misunderstanding. If the complaint is not satisfactorily answered by the instructor, and if the student feels that an error has not been corrected or that the assigned grade was unfairly determined, the student may appeal the decision to the chair of the department in which the course is offered, (or, in cases pertaining to non-departmental courses, to a faculty agent designated by the Dean of the school). After discussing the matter with the student, the Chair (or faculty agent) will consult with the course instructor, and the instructor then will report a decision to the student. A student who is still convinced that a complaint has not received a fair determination may appeal the decision to the total faculty or to the Dean. The Dean will proceed as deemed appropriate, but the final authority in the determination of a grade must rest with the course instructor.

MID-TERMS AND FINAL EXAMS

The number of tests, quizzes, or examinations should be published in the course syllabus, along with the weighted value of each. Each course should require some form of final evaluation. These may take the form of a final examination, research paper, project presentation or other method of assessment. Generally speaking, final examinations at the graduate level are held the last day of class. Monitoring exams is considered a standard part of the contract agreement and the instructor should be present during all exams. The School discourages the use of outside monitors. Inappropriate student behavior is minimized when the faculty member is present during tests or exams.

In keeping with the required contact hours, final examinations for undergraduates are to be given only during the scheduled University examination period, which is listed in the Schedule of Classes official calendar.

Exams should be graded and returned in a timely manner, usually within one week. It is important for the student to understand where he/she stands. On occasion, instructors have been tardy in grading exams, and it is our experience that this inevitably becomes a justifiable source of contention and discomfort on the part of students.

TEXTBOOKS

Book orders are placed on a per semester basis by the department. Requests for book orders are placed by the Departmental Secretary who forwards them to the SMU Bookstore before the deadline date. If you are unable to meet the necessary deadline, please notify the appropriate secretary. Please indicate which books are required for the course, which books are recommended for supplementary reading, if any.

Please note that late book orders imply late book availability and chaos at the beginning of the course. Delaying book orders is one of the major sources of irritation for the students, the departmental staff and eventually the instructor himself.

Complimentary desk copies of adopted texts are available from the publishers. A list of publishers and representatives is maintained by the departmental secretaries. The secretary who coordinates book orders will help you contact the appropriate publisher. Desk copies are generally shipped to you at the designated department in the School of Education.

CANCELLATION OF CLASSES

Should it become necessary to cancel a class, please contact the School as early as possible. The first contact should be made with the Department Program Specialist, who will place notices outside the classroom announcing the cancellation to the students. Whenever possible, students should be telephoned either by the instructor or the department secretaries. For this reason, it is advisable to have the students furnish you with daytime contact numbers at the beginning of the semester. The Program Director and/or the Department Chair should be notified of any class cancellation, or class relocation.

It is highly desirable to make up cancelled classes. In such cases, the make-up schedule should be discussed in advance with the students and everyone affected should be given ample warning

SMU INCLEMENT WEATHER POLICY

It is the goal of SMU to remain open and hold classes as scheduled. However, if conditions warrant closing, the President in consultation with the SMU Police and the Provost will make that decision. Individual schools, colleges and departments are not authorized to make their own decisions on closings, delayed openings or cancellation of classes.

As soon as a decision is made, the following steps are taken to notify the university community: an e-mail message will be sent to all students, faculty and staff; closing announcements will be posted on the SMU web site, via SMU's Twitter feed at twitter.com/smu and at facebook.com/smudallas. Additionally, the Office of News and Communications will attempt to contact the news media by 6 a.m. if day classes must be cancelled. If it becomes necessary to cancel evening classes or events, News and Communications will attempt to contact the news media by 4 p.m.

If SMU remains open, faculty, students and staff should report to their classrooms or offices as usual. If someone lives in an area that is affected by bad weather and feels that travel to campus would be an unreasonable safety risk, that individual should contact his or her supervisor or department head to discuss possible options, and students should contact their professors in advance.

UNIVERSITY POLICIES & PROCEDURES IMPORTANT FOR FACULTY

<https://www.smu.edu/simmons/AboutUs/HonorCode>

Intellectual integrity and academic honesty are fundamental to the processes of learning and of evaluating academic performance, and maintaining them is the responsibility of all members of an educational institution. The inculcation of personal standards of honesty and integrity is a goal of education in all the disciplines of the University.

The faculty has the responsibility of encouraging and maintaining an atmosphere of academic honesty by being certain that students are aware of the value of it, that they understand the regulations defining it, and that they know the penalties for departing from it. The faculty should, as far as is reasonably possible, assist students in avoiding the temptation to cheat. Faculty members must be aware that permitting dishonesty is not open to personal choice. A professor or instructor who is unwilling to act upon offenses is an accessory with the student offender in deteriorating the integrity of the University.

Students must share the responsibility for creating and maintaining an atmosphere of honesty and integrity. Students should be aware that personal experience in completing assigned work is essential to learning. Permitting others to prepare their work, using published or unpublished summaries as a substitute for studying required material, or giving or receiving unauthorized assistance in the preparation of work to be submitted is directly contrary to the honest process of learning. Students who are aware that others in a course are cheating or otherwise acting dishonestly have the responsibility to inform the professor.

Students and faculty members must share the knowledge that any dishonest practices permitted will make it more difficult for the honest students to be evaluated and graded fairly and will damage the integrity of the whole University. Students should recognize that their own interests and their integrity as individuals will suffer if they condone dishonesty in others. Disability Accommodations

Federal law defines a disability as a physical or mental impairment that substantially limits one or more major life activities of that individual. Examples of major life activities include walking, sitting, standing, seeing, hearing, speaking, breathing, learning, working, caring for oneself, and other similar activities. If a condition substantially limits a student's access to educational opportunity, that condition is considered a disability. A diagnosis of a disability does not, in and of itself, necessitate reasonable accommodations under the ADA or Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973.

FACULTY Handbook

The following is a list of disabling conditions SMU accommodates.

SEXUAL HARASSMENT AND DISCRIMINATION

Sexual misconduct is prohibited by SMU's Title IX Harassment Policy, Policy 2.5.1, and the federal law Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972.

SMU's Title IX Harassment Policy is online in the University Policy Manual, smu.edu/policy, and on the Office of Institutional Access and Equity website, smu.edu/iae.

Sexual misconduct encompasses all forms of sexual harassment, including gender-based harassment, sexual violence, sexual assault, dating violence, domestic violence, stalking and sexual exploitation. Sexual misconduct will not be tolerated in the SMU community. Learn more about sexual misconduct definitions and examples, including sexual assault and consent.

To begin using Canvas - click the "Canvas Login" button (above). Log in using your SMU ID and password. Your list of available courses will be listed under the "Courses" menu in Canvas. Faculty may begin to add content to any or their existing courses or may request a demo course for training purposes, content development, or testing. If you experience any login issues, please contact the IT Help Desk at (214) 768-HELP (4357).

There are many ways to get help with Canvas. For most basic "how to" questions, users are encouraged to contact IT Help Desk. For additional information about Canvas support, please visit the Canvas Help pages. You can also utilize the Canvas Guides, a site with comprehensive documentation curated by Instructure and the Canvas community. For further assistance and consultation, contact your school's Academic Technology Service Director.

How Participants Are Enrolled in Canvas

The process to put participants and courses into Canvas is an automated one; information from my.SMU is automatically exported into Canvas for use by students and faculty. Several designations in my.SMU define how participants are linked to correct courses and correct roles (ie, Instructors, Co-Instructors, TAs, students, etc).

All students, Instructors, secondary instructors, TAs, and supervisory instructors are enrolled in every six hours (3 times a day) throughout the week when my.SMU data flows directly (one-way) into Canvas.

Canvas WalkThru(s)

FACULTY Handbook

The new Canvas WalkMe provides real-time guidance that is easy to follow. WalkMe simplifies the user experience by providing on-screen, step-by-step guidance at the moment of need so that our instructors can complete any task successfully. This makes learning specific Canvas tasks more efficient and boosts SMU's overall productivity.

Instructors can access the WalkMe Player Menu, inside Canvas, using most modern browsers including Google Chrome and Mozilla Firefox. Without any software download or installation, instructors can access WalkMe in real-time as a SaaS application right inside their course.
