

David Leonhardt

A veteran of The New York Times since 1999, David Leonhardt will begin writing an op-ed column in 2016. He was previously The Times's Washington bureau chief, a staff writer for its Sunday magazine and the founding editor of The Upshot, a Times site that uses graphics and data to engage readers. In 2011, he won a Pulitzer Prize for commentary, for his columns on the economic crisis.