STRATEGIC IMPACT

During his eight years at SMU, Molina's leadership has both recrafted and ensured the success of the Office of Facilities Planning & Management. The strategic planning initiatives and projects within the student life, athletics, fine arts, academic and clinical facilities has had a transitional positive impact to the SMU campus, the community and the wide network of the built environment partnerships. His cultural shift within the OFPM division has created a place where companies across the United States desire to partner with SMU. Molina remains focused on ensuring best of class solutions and upholds SMU's high standards and reputation of quality as well as innovation in every effort.

He has a career portfolio of over $8.3 billion in planning, design, construction, and operations for various sectors including private, public and higher education. In 2020, SMU's student government voted Molina to receive the SMU Hilltop Outstanding Administrator award. His alma mater, Texas Tech University College of Architecture awarded him the prestigious Distinguished Alumni Award in 2021.
