

Adriane Null

Senior Manager, Commercial FP&A Southwest Airlines

Adriane Null is a Certified Public Accountant and currently leads the Revenue Planning and Initiatives team within Commercial FP&A at Southwest Airlines. In this role, she is responsible for driving revenue planning strategies, supporting key business initiatives, and delivering financial insights to inform decision-making across the organization.

Prior to joining Southwest Airlines, Adriane worked at Ernst & Young as an external auditor, where she gained experience in financial reporting, auditing, and accounting practices for a variety of clients.

Adriane has been with Southwest Airlines for over 10 years, serving in roles across Corporate Accounting and Financial Planning & Analysis. Throughout her tenure, she has built deep expertise in financial analysis, corporate strategy, airline operations, and cross-functional collaboration, contributing to the company's strategic and operational success.

Adriane earned both her MSA and BBA in Accounting from Southern Methodist University.

Adriane resides in Dallas with her husband, Taylor, and their two sons, Jameson (2 years old) and Beckham, who recently joined the family in January 2026. In her spare time, she enjoys spending time with family and friends, playing with their wheaten terrier, and traveling.
