Kevin is a partner at PwC in Dallas, bringing more than two decades of professional experience to the firm. He has served several publicly traded and privately held bank and bank holding companies, consumer finance entities and numerous publicly traded and privately held insurance companies. His commercial banking and consumer finance background has several representative clients ranging from publicly traded bank holding companies with under $15 billion in assets to specialized subsidy work for multinational banking clients with over $2 trillion in assets.

Kevin has had a diverse background of clients, industries, and overall experiences. From his start in PwC's Asset & Wealth Management practice working with various private equity funds to his time as a manager in the Insurance practice working on both audit and consulting engagements for entities ranging from global reinsurers to captive insurers with specialty regulatory engagements to his transition into PwC's Banking & Capital Market's practice where, for the past 12 years, he has focused primarily on commercial banking, mortgage, and consumer lending. Kevin's unique experiences across industries has allowed him deep experiences across complex business issues. He has led teams through several significant transactions (business combinations, IPOs, carve-outs, divestures, etc.), implementation of credit loss modelling, complex financial instrument valuations, derivative and hedging strategies, and various other accounting and operational areas.

Kevin has a B.B.A majoring in Accounting with a minor in Economics and a Master in Professional Accountancy degree both from the University of Nebraska at Lincoln. He is a CPA licensed in the state of Texas and is a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants.

Representative clients and roles:
