REVIEWS OF SCHOLARSHIP

- The Honorable Stanley Sporkin (Former U.S. District Court Judge, SEC Enforcement Director, General Counsel of the CIA) —“Professor Steinberg’s book [The Federalization of Corporate Governance] is an extremely important development of our securities laws. I put this on par with Professor Loss’s Treatise on the Securities Laws. It demonstrates the emergence of Professor Steinberg as the leading scholar in the field....”
- Edward D. Herlihy (Partner and Co-Chair of the Executive Committee, Wachtell, Lipton, Rosen & Katz) —“Professor Marc Steinberg is the preeminent securities law authority of our generation....”
- Arthur J. Goldberg (former Justice, U.S. Supreme Court) —“I wish to thank you for your invaluable assistance in the preparation of my separate statement in connection with the Federal Advisory Committee Report on Tender Offers.”
- Harvey L. Pitt (Former Chairman, Securities and Exchange Commission)—“For anyone who cares about strengthening capitalism, improving the efficiency of our capital markets, and protecting investors, Professor Marc Steinberg’s creative and thought-provoking book Rethinking Securities Law is a must read.”
- Harold M. Williams (former Chairman, Securities and Exchange Commission)—In the Foreword to Corporate Internal Affairs — A Corporate and Securities Law Perspective, stating: “Although I by no means agree with all of the positions taken, Professor Steinberg’s insightful analysis merits the attention of the corporate community and the bar. In short, this is a worthwhile book and I highly recommend it.”

- E. Norman Veasey (former Chief Justice, Delaware Supreme Court) — The Federalization of Corporate Governance “is a very valuable contribution to the literature as a meticulously-researched and thoughtfully-organized scholarly work.”

- Leo E. Strine (former Chief Justice, Delaware Supreme Court, former Chancellor Delaware Court of Chancery) – [In Corporate Director and Officer Liability — “Discretionaries” Not Fiduciaries,] “Marc Steinberg’s gimlet-eyed look at what the law actually expects of those said to owe fiduciary duties to corporations is a refreshing example of how rigorous thinking can aid the difficult job of policymaking.”

- J. Travis Laster (Vice Chancellor, Delaware Court of Chancery) – [In Corporate Director and Officer Liability — “Discretionaries” Not Fiduciaries,] “Professor Steinberg goes beneath the surface to look unflinchingly at how the law operates and makes a powerful case that the fiduciary headline doesn’t match the story.”

- Ralph C. Ferrara (former SEC General Counsel and Partner, Proskauer Rose) — “In Rethinking Securities Law, Professor Marc Steinberg ... has formulated an ecosystem of fairness and excellence to sustain access and exchange in our capital markets.”

- Roberta S. Karmel (Centennial Professor of Law (Emeritus), Brooklyn Law School, former SEC Commissioner) — “Professor Steinberg’s book [The Federalization of Corporate Governance] is a thorough and valuable historical survey of federal government initiatives with regard to corporate governance....”

- Dennis Stubblefield (former SEC Enforcement Attorney)—“Marc Steinberg, the nation’s preeminent authority in securities law, has recently added to his already voluminous scholarship with his Oxford University Press publication of Rethinking Securities Law, thus making another significant contribution to our understanding of this important area of law.”

- Samuel Wolff (Global Securities Law Expert and Author of Several Treatises) — “Professor Marc Steinberg’s new book Rethinking Securities Law, published by Oxford University Press, is a major contribution to the literature on United States securities regulation. It is safe to say that in terms of a comprehensive, policy-oriented analysis of the entire field of U.S. securities laws, there is no book quite like it. Steinberg’s book was recently recognized as the best law book of 2021 by American Book Fest.”

- A. A. Sommer, Jr. (former Commissioner, Securities and Exchange Commission) — Securities Regulation: Liabilities and Remedies “is overall an outstanding piece of work by an unusually gifted author.”

- Paul Geller (Partner, Robbins Geller – Lead Plaintiffs’ Counsel in the Enron Class Action) – With respect to Corporate Director and Officer Liability — “Discretionaries” Not Fiduciaries:] “Once again, Professor Steinberg demonstrates his brilliance and gumption in critically evaluating and challenging concepts that have been too long ingrained in corporate lexicon. This is a must read from the law and business school classroom to the corporate boardroom.”

- William R. McLucas (Partner, Wilmer Hale and former Director of Enforcement, Securities and Exchange Commission) — Attorney Liability After Sarbanes-Oxley “is an essential resource for all lawyers [and] provides both clarity and guidance for navigating the complicated ethical climate of today’s world.”

- The Honorable Gerald E. Rosen (U.S. federal district judge, retired) — “Professor Marc Steinberg is one of our nation’s preeminent authorities in the field of securities law with a lifetime of important contributions to this important area of the law....”

- Kenneth J. Bialkin (Former Partner, Skadden, Arps, Slate, Meagher & Flom) — Corporate and Securities Malpractice “considers many of the troublesome issues which crop up in corporate practice and provides guidance, precedents, and analysis”

- The Honorable Jed S. Rakoff (U.S. federal district court judge) — In his book review on Rethinking Securities Law published in the New York Review of Books (June 23, 2022): “The law professor Marc Steinberg lays out a series of reasonable proposals for reforming securities law....”

- Joel Seligman (Dean Emeritus, Washington University School of Law)— Rethinking Securities Law “makes an outstanding and insightful contribution to actions that should be undertaken to remedy the deficiencies that currently exist.”

- Felix Steffek (Professor of Law, University of Cambridge) – “This thought-provoking reconceptualization [Corporate Director and Officer Liability — “Discretionaries” Not Fiduciaries] of the duties of corporate directors is a must-read for everyone interested in the law and practice of corporate governance.”

- Hans Tjio – (CJ Koh Professor, The Faculty of Law, National University of Singapore) – [In Corporate Director and Officer Liability — “Discretionaries” Not Fiduciaries,] “Professor Steinberg has done an invaluable service to academia and the profession by forcing us to rethink the meaning of fiduciaries and their duties.”

- Jonathan R. Macey (Sam Harris Professor of Corporate Law, Yale Law School) – “This important contribution to the literature on corporate governance [Corporate Director and Officer Liability — “Discretionaries” Not Fiduciaries] explains how corporate directors and officers are held to widely varying standards of liability depending on relevant facts and circumstances and elucidates the wide variety of approaches to liability.”

- M. Todd Henderson (Michael J. Marks Professor of Law, University of Chicago Law School) – “Words Matter. Marc Steinberg, one of the most informed and original voices in business law, demonstrates this in his highly readable and provokable new book [Corporate Director and Officer Liabilities — “Discretionaries” Not Fiduciaries].... Not only will readers learn a good deal about the substance of fiduciary duties, which is reason enough to read it, they may also come away convinced, as I was, that we are calling them by the wrong name and that it matters.”

- Richard H. Buxbaum (Jackson H. Ralston Professor of International Law (Emeritus), University of California, Berkeley School of Law)—“Only someone with Professor Steinberg’s qualifications could tackle the immense task [of authoring Rethinking Securities Law].”
- Stephen M. Bainbridge (William D. Warren Distinguished Professor of Law, UCLA) — “Rethinking Securities Law by preeminent securities law scholar Marc I. Steinberg should be a strong candidate for law book of 2021....”
