

Oncor

Oncor operates the largest electric transmission and distribution system in Texas, delivering power to more than 13 million customers and operating over 144,000 miles of transmission and distribution lines across the state. Oncor does more than simply keep the lights on – they build, operate and maintain the network that delivers power. The dedicated employees who make up Oncor are advocates for reliable energy and great service. And for more than 100 years, Oncor has built a reputation as a company that cares about communities, including being good stewards of the environment, promoting electric safety and providing safe and reliable electric service.
