From the study of Rabbi David Stern

We all felt blessed to be there

At the beginning of May, I was privileged to participate in a program celebrating the Rabbi Levi A. Olan Digital Collection at Bridwell Library, the library of the Perkins School of Theology at SMU. Here's the story:

A few years ago, Bridwell archivist Timothy Binkley discovered a large unlabeled box in the Bridwell basement. He opened the box to discover over one hundred reel-to-reel tapes, containing the recordings of over two hundred of Rabbi Olan's weekly Sunday morning radio addresses offered from 1961-1970. Tim knew about Rabbi Olan's longstanding relationship with Perkins and Bridwell, and had in fact studied his sermons in a class here at Temple with Rabbi Knight. And so began the process, with the full-hearted engagement and support of Elizabeth Olan Hirsch, of digitizing the tapes.

Rabbi
David Stern

On Sunday May 5, the people who filled Prothro Hall at SMU to capacity heard the astounding results in a sermon that Liz Hirsch and Tim Binkley selected for the dedication: "The First Anniversary of a Tragedy," preached on the radio by Rabbi Olan on November 22, 1964.

The sermon we heard that afternoon, like so many of Rabbi Olan's sermons, is brilliant. It is plainspoken and profound, impeccably reasoned and deeply passionate. It anchors its listeners on the way to agitating them, and agitates them on the way to giving them hope.

In reflecting on the impact and ramifications of the Kennedy assassination and the attention it brought to Dallas, Rabbi Olan declares directly that "the city is not guilty of the crime."

But lest you think that the preacher's goal is to soothe his audience, Rabbi Olan has a different message to deliver in these words: The "powerful searchlight ... was focused on this city," and our flaws "were shown to the world." "The city which enjoyed boasting of itself with a capital letter was revealed as a place where the number of children who drop out of school is shocking ... There was bitterness and hate which did not receive the reprimand which ugliness deserves." Nor does he spare the religious community: "In a city where some of the largest churches and synagogues in the world are active, it was discovered that they were not concerned with slums, poverty, hatred or ethical standards."

Rabbi Levi A. Olan Radio Sermon Series

Bring your lunch and join us to listen to Rabbi Olan's radio sermons from the 1960's that were originally broadcast on WFAA radio, followed by a discussion led by Dr. Morton Prager. Mondays, 12:15 pm-1:30 p.m. Weiss Youth Lounge. The original tapes were digitized and uploaded to the Internet, and are available on the website of the Bridwell Library at SMU.

And then, in reflecting on efforts to repair the city's reputation rather than to address its failures, Rabbi Olan comes to the powerful center of his argument: "So far the effort has been to change the image – not to change the city."

The experience of hearing the sermon was breathtaking, and brought tears to people's eyes: in superb sound quality, Rabbi Olan's voice, intellect, and call for justice filled the room. Almost fifty years later, the prod to conscience still landed with prophetic force. We all felt blessed to be there.

And best of all, the commitment of the Bridwell Library is not just to hold and preserve this collection, but to make it available to as many people as possible. You can access the complete collection (which includes a helpful search function) at a wonderful website: <http://digitalcollections.smu.edu/all/bridwell/olan>.

Many members of this congregation were privileged to hear Rabbi Olan's forceful brilliance from the pulpit of Temple Emanu-El over his decades of leadership; others of us have had the privilege of reading his words. How blessed we shall all be now: to hear, in his own voice, Rabbi Olan's call for justice, for faith, for the healing of the human soul and the transformation of human society.

Summer guest teachers bring unique voices to Chever Torah class

This summer we have an incredible and diverse group of rabbis, scholars, and professors teaching Chever Torah in June and July. Amy Ross is master teacher of adults and kids; Mort Prager and Bill Harford are regular Chever Torah students and will share their wisdom as teachers. Brian

Zimmerman leads our southern area of the Union for Reform Judaism; Mark Washofsky teaches at the Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion; Shira Lander is on the Jewish Studies faculty at Rice University; Michael Cohen was ordained at Hebrew College and does hospice work with Vitas, and Eve Posen is the Campus Rabbi at Levine Academy. Each one brings a unique perspective and their own life experiences to the study of Torah, as we all do, and we are grateful they are all members of our congregation and have agreed to be on our adult learning faculty. We look forward to learning with them in the months to come.

State of Health Care in Texas course audio now on Temple website

Adult Jewish Learning and the Social Justice Council proudly presented the Katherine F. Baum Adult Education Course "The State of Health Care in Texas". With outstanding presenters, our course took a close and lively look at two key areas of concern, women's health and mental health.

We have recorded both of these stimulating programs and the audio recordings are available on the website. <http://www.tedallas.org/learning/baum>.

On April 18, our conversation on women's health was led by Kathryn Allen, a former Senior Vice President for Development and Community Relations of Planned Parenthood North Texas and Dr. Mandy Golman, an Assistant Professor of Women's Health at Texas Woman's University. The class addressed young and adolescent girls, preventative care, safer sex and abstinence education and women's health through adulthood. Special emphasis was given to state policies related to these issues and some of the challenges we may face in the future.

Our second session on April 25 focused on mental health policies and services in Texas with Janie Metzinger, the Public Policy Director of Mental Health America of Greater Dallas. Our speaker helped orient us to the landscape of the public and private mental health systems in Texas. She brought focus to how current state resources are used and areas for growth and expansion that Mental Health America and other organizations are advocating for in Austin.

The Katherine F. Baum Adult Education Course was established in 2005 by Lester Baum in memory of his wife Kathi, a lifetime Temple member and lifelong learner. Her keen insights, integrity, and beautiful smile are lovingly remembered by all who knew her. Judaism was deeply meaningful to her, and during the last two years of her life, she became an adult Bat Mitzvah. This course is a fitting tribute to Kathi, a seeker of knowledge and truth who embraced and enjoyed diverse friendships and interests.

First Israel Forum focused on Israel's high tech sector

On April 23, Temple Emanu El held its first Israel Forum: Conversations about Modern Israel.

The Israel Forum was created to bring together Temple members who share a love for and interest in learning more about modern Israel.

The topic for this first Forum, presented by Temple members Mark Wigder and Steve Benenson, was Israel's amazing high tech industry. After sharing some impressive facts about Israel's economy and some of Israel's high tech contributions to the world (we couldn't list them all!), we learned about Waze, an Israeli start-up company that created a community-based navigation and mapping phone app.

We finished the Forum discussing how and why the high tech industry flourishes in Israel.

If you would like to be involved with future Israel Forums, contact Ellie Solimani, Adult Education Coordinator at esolimani@tedallas.org, or 214.706.0000, ext. 188.

A Bottle in the Gaza Sea

July 9, 2013

Discussion led by Rabbi Asher Knight

Tal, 17, has emigrated from France to Jerusalem with her family. She writes a letter expressing her refusal to accept that only hatred can reign between Israelis and Palestinians. She slips the letter into a bottle, and her brother throws it into the sea near Gaza. Tal receives an e-mail from a young Palestinian named Naim. Thus begins a turbulent but tender long-distance friendship. This engrossing drama is based on the award-winning novel by Valérie Zenatti. Subtitled.

*New York Jewish Film Festival;
Toronto Jewish Film Festival (2010)*

Jews and Baseball: An American Love Story

July 16, 2013

Discussion led by Rabbi Kimberly Herzog Cohen

More than a film about sports, and narrated by Academy Award-winner Dustin Hoffman, it is a story of immigration, traditions, assimilation, bigotry, heroism and the shattering of stereotypes. Despite hostility from fans and violence from opposing players, there have been standout Jewish players every decade. Interviews include players Al Rosen, Kevin Youkilis, Shawn Green, Yogi Berra, and a rare interview with Sandy Koufax.

Audience Choice Award, Greater Phoenix Jewish Film Festival; Jerusalem International Film Festival

Eichmann's End

July 23, 2013

Discussion led by Cantor Richard Cohn

Adolf Eichmann, an architect of the Holocaust, managed to escape to Argentina at the end of World War II. Many know the story of how Mossad agents traveled there in 1960 in order to bring him to justice in Israel. Most do not know the improbable story revealed in this film: how a youthful flirtation between one of Eichmann's sons and Silvia Hermann, the daughter of a Holocaust survivor, led to Eichmann's capture. Subtitled.

Minneapolis International Film Festival; Documentary Edge Film Festival; Boston Jewish Film Festival (2010)

David

July 30, 2013

Discussion led by Rabbi Adam Allenberg

Eleven year-old Daud, the son of a religious imam in Brooklyn, is mistaken for a Jewish boy. He becomes conflicted after befriending Jewish kids his age, and the longer he plays out his double life, the more he risks driving a wedge in his family. David, as he is known to the kids, is drawn into a dilemma inspired by youthful deceit and the best of intentions. This prize-winning film explores boundaries of faith and trust in New York's multi-cultural backdrop.

*Audience Award -
Brooklyn International Film Festival (2011)*

Gathering The Waters

Diving into the history, ritual and re-emergence of Mikveh

Wednesday, July 17, 5:30 - 7 p.m. Linz Hall. Co-sponsored by WRJ/Sisterhood and the Outreach Committee.

A mikveh, by definition, is a collection of mayim hayim - living waters. This ritual, both transcendent and imminent, has breathed life into Jewish tradition for millennia with the power to denote change and spiritual transformation. What function did the mikveh serve in antiquity and what has kept it alive all this time? Together, we will explore the possible uses for mikveh from ancient times, to rabbinic times, to our modern times as well as some of the deeper spiritual underpinnings of this beautiful ritual. The mikveh is part of the conversion process at Temple Emanu-El.

Rabbi Jennifer Solomon, a spiritual leader at Beth Meyer Synagogue in Raleigh, North Carolina along side her husband, Rabbi Eric Solomon, grew up at Temple Emanu-El with her parents, Marty and Bernice Sherling. Our speaker is founding director of Libi Eir Awakened Heart Community Mikveh. This promises to be a fascinating program!

If you wish to gather at Maggiano's North Park for dinner afterwards, please call Joan Genender, 214.363.1425, to let her know by July 15.

High Holy Days 2013

High Holy Days at Temple Emanu-El are truly inspiring. It doesn't happen without the help of hundreds of volunteers who work behind the scenes from June to September to assure that thousands of worshippers have a meaningful experience.

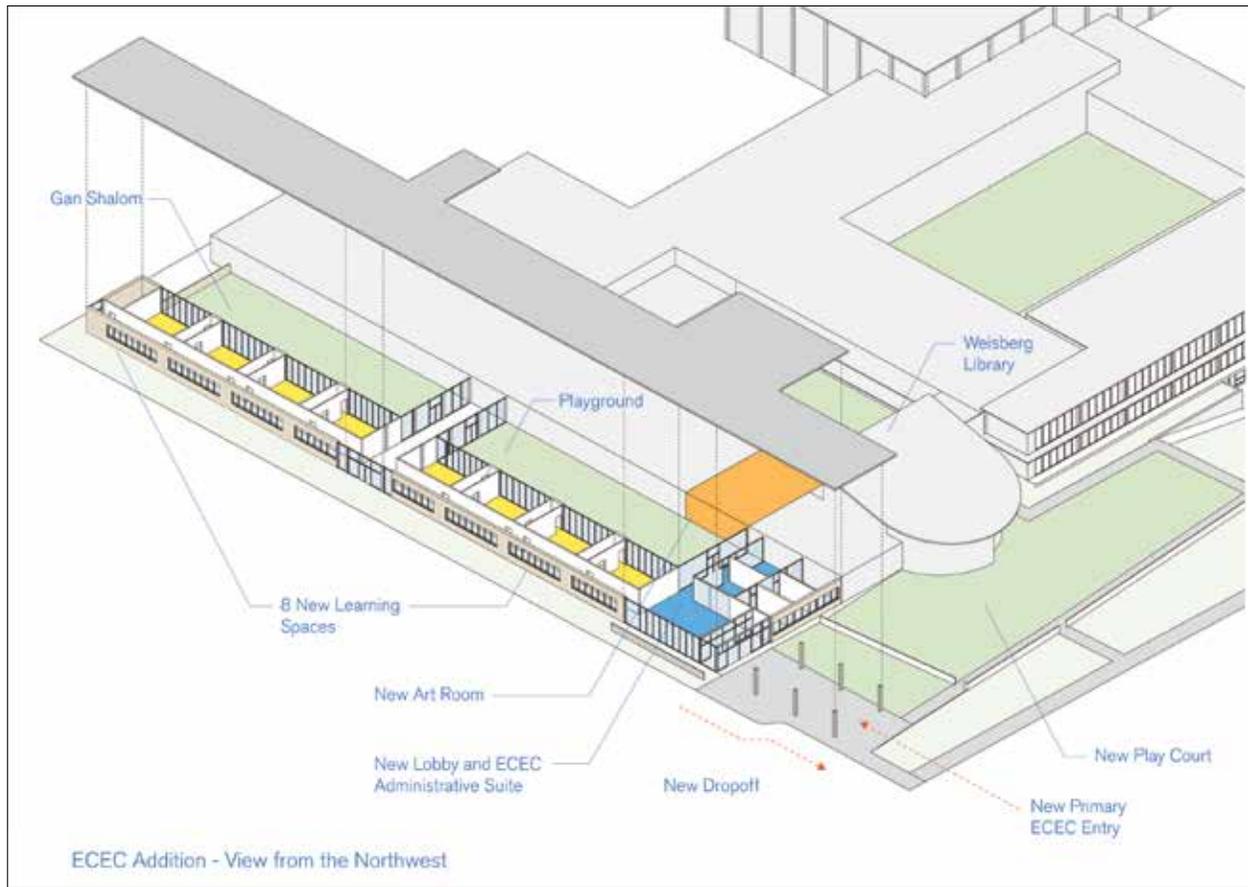

You can be one of those volunteers. Look over the list and see where you want to contribute your valuable time and special skills.

- Packet Assembly and Envelope Stuffing
- Processing Seating Requests
- Proofreading
- Staffing the Guest Services Table
- Greeters at High Holy Day Services (Sept. 4 & 5) and (Sept. 13 & 14)

Give a few hours or as much time as your schedule allows. To lend a hand for High Holy Days, call or email Debbie Fuqua at 214.706.0000, ext. 128 or dfuqua@tedallas.org.

Temple thanks our High Holy Days volunteer coordinator Ellen McIntosh.

Physical environment can be student's 'third teacher'

Our young children may not pay close attention to their classrooms, but space can make a big difference in their experience.

Drawing on the Reggio Emilia approach, we believe that the physical environment is crucial to a student's experience and is often referred to as the child's "third teacher." That's one reason we're so excited about the changes Our Temple | Our Future will bring to the Early Childhood Education Center.

In planning new spaces and the remodeling of old ones, we hope to see each classroom integrated with the rest of the school, and the school integrated with the surrounding community. We believe that children can best create meaning and make sense of their world through environments that support "complex, varied, sustained, and changing relationships between people, the world of experience, ideas and the many ways of expressing ideas."

Among the changes we hope the new space will incorporate:

- Adaptable and flexible spaces that can be used for multiple purposes.
- Upgraded technology systems as a way of gaining understanding to our place in the world.
- The addition of a new art room, expanded library, and an authentic music room, all of which will enhance school programming.
- Bathroom facilities in each and every single classroom.

- Extra classroom space, ample storage spaces and spaces for supplies, which may be frequently rearranged to draw attention to their aesthetic features.

- Electrical upgrading that will give us multiple outlets in each room.

In discussing and planning the space, we want to create opportunities for children to interact throughout the school. Even passageways and windows, lunchrooms and bathrooms are being designed to encourage community.

We hope, as well, to blend the outside and inside, maintaining our beautiful natural environments. So we hope natural wood floors, earthy colors, and our wonderful natural light will provide a warm environment that nurtures the growth of our youngest members.

Social Justice

Temple's advocacy position has genuine opportunity to influence public policy on reducing gun violence

Our active and diverse Social Justice Council oversees numerous service projects and volunteer opportunities to engage our members. It also helps to identify the moral imperatives of our time that call out to our sense of social justice and require advocacy efforts to encourage our leaders to respond to the needs of our community. Reduction of gun violence is one such issue.

Our clergy took the lead in delivering a strong statement of sympathy for the victims of the Newtown tragedy, and expressed solidarity with the growing movement among faith institutions to advocate for sensible gun violence regulation. The Council considered whether, as a congregation, we have an obligation to use our collective voice to speak out in support as well and voted unanimously to bring a proposal for congregational advocacy to the Temple Board of Trustees. At its March meeting, the Board of Trustees thoughtfully discussed and approved the Social Justice Council's advocacy proposal regarding Gun Violence Prevention.

Temple's advocacy position is deeply rooted in Jewish values, and is firmly in the mainstream of current Jewish thinking on the issue of reducing gun violence. Temple joins other faith based organizations, including the Religious Action Center for Reform Judaism (www.rac.org) and the Jewish Council for Public Affairs (www.jewishpublicaffairs.org), as well as organizations representing numerous other faiths, in calling for sensible legislation that will help reduce gun violence.

Our position reflects the belief that we have a genuine opportunity to influence public policy in regard to:

- Universal, meaningful background checks
- A ban on assault weapons and high-capacity magazines, and
- Improved access to mental health services.

You can read the entire proposal on the website at www.tedallas.org/repairing-the-world/advocacy.

The Social Justice Council will be communicating advocacy opportunities and hosting educational programs about the relevant issues related to gun violence. Visit the website mentioned above to read our clergy's statements, the congregational advocacy position, find additional resources, and learn more about the issue.

If you have additional questions please contact Cheryl Pollman at pollmanc@gmail.com or Jayme Cohen at jayme@jjlc.net.

Brotherhood

Brotherhood strives to do even more for Temple community

By Tom Timmons
Executive Vice-President of Temple
Brotherhood

Temple Emanu-El Brotherhood was founded in 1922. We have been doing Mitzvah Cooking since 1989, but for many years we have also included Coats-for-Kids, Blood Drives, Sunday morning community programs, High Holy Days ushering and many other activities to help Temple and the community at large. Here is a secret – we are not satisfied! We want to do more and we want not only to help, but we also want to be even more a part of Temple Emanu-El, participating in its daily life: services, religious school, the Early Childhood Learning Center, youth and Greene Family Camp, with seniors, and more. We need your help. We need your suggestions. We need your participation. Brotherhood's web site <http://www.tebrotherhood.org/> is a good resource for information about Brotherhood. Be sure to click on "Presentation" on the home page. If you are thinking about joining and want more information, please contact Brotherhood President Steve Levine or me. Our email addresses are: stevelevine@flash.net and timmons@ippractice.com.

High Holy Days Ushering

Brotherhood wishes to thank Harry Kabler for his many years of organizing ushers for the High Holy Days. His service to Brotherhood and our Temple is greatly appreciated. Jack Bell, a past president of Brotherhood, has agreed to assume the responsibilities. Planning has already begun for this year's High Holy Days. If you have a desire to be involved in this mitzvah, please contact Jack at his office 214.969.2389 or at home 972.490.7844 or by e-mail at Jack-Bell@sbcglobal.net.

The Future of Health Care

Brotherhood's Community Coffee in April featured a panel discussion of The Future of Health Care.

April drive provides more than 35 pints for Carter Blood Care

The Brotherhood held one of its twice yearly blood drives on April 7. Because of the hard work of chairperson Hal Sommer assisted by Robert Hirsh, Harold Krom and Alan Harris this drive was a great success. Starting with no appointments for this function the call team of Ken Schiller, Joe Goldman and Ron Cohen were able to sign up over twenty donors before the day of the drive. With the addition of walk-ins we were able to donate over 35 pints of blood for Carter Blood Care.

Carter tells us that for every pint of blood donated three lives can be saved. Also we received a note from Carter that all the blood donated in the weeks prior to the tragedy in the City of West, was sent to West. That included all the blood donated through the Brotherhood blood drive.

The next Brotherhood blood drive at the Temple will be held on October 6. We already have more than 30 appointments for that day but have room for many more people. If we show that we can get more people to attend the next drive Carter will increase the number of people on hand so there will be little or no waiting.

If you are interested in giving blood at our next drive we would love to hear from you. Please contact Hal Sommer at halsommer@aol.com with the time on October 6 you would like an appointment and we will get back to you with a confirmation.

You can also donate blood at any of the Carter Blood Care store fronts in Temple Emanu-El's name by using Sponsor #021387. If you have any questions about giving blood or your eligibility contact Carter Blood Care at the following phone number: 1.800.366.2834.
