Faculty Appointment in Old Testament Interpretation and Biblical Hebrew

Perkins School of Theology, Southern Methodist University, seeks a faculty member in Old Testament Interpretation and Biblical Hebrew (Position #050184). This is a search at the senior level at the rank of Full Professor, with tenure. The appointee will teach courses in the various degree programs of Perkins School of Theology and in the M. A. and Ph. D. curricula of the Graduate Program in Religious Studies of Southern Methodist University. Scholarly achievement, including publications in the field of the appointment, and participation in the life of the school, including its governance and duties normally assumed by faculty members, are among the responsibilities. The Ph. D. or equivalent degree is required. Essential qualifications include: demonstrated achievement as a scholar in Old Testament Interpretation and in Biblical Hebrew; interest and ability in interpreting the Old Testament in its theological, literary, and historical dimensions and in contemporary methodological perspectives; demonstrated achievement as a teacher; commitment to the primary mission of Perkins School of Theology to prepare women and men for effective leadership in the church; commitment to the objectives of the Graduate Program in Religious Studies for a career as teacher-scholar; and knowledge of and appreciation for Wesleyan theological traditions and their relationship to other Christian theological traditions. Desirable qualifications include: knowledge of ancient near eastern languages cognate to Biblical Hebrew; backgrounds, interests, perspectives, and abilities that complement those of other members of the Perkins faculty, with openness to pedagogical and scholarly collaboration; understanding of, and commitment to, the life and practice of communities of faith. Responsibilities begin in fall term 2014. Apply online at <http://www.interfolio.com/apply/21765>. All applications must include a CV, three references, and all contact information, including an e-mail address. To ensure complete consideration, applications must be filed by October 31, 2013, but the Search Committee will consider applications until the position is filled. Hiring is contingent upon the satisfactory completion of a background check. To view the full job description, visit our website at <http://www.smu.edu/Perkins/FacultyAcademics/FacultyOpenings>.
